DR. BOGGESS HERE TO AID DETECTIVES SEEKING HIS WIFE

Trail of the Missing Kansas City Pianiste Leads to Festus and De Soto, Mo., Where Persons Tell of Seeing Woman Answering Her Description.

HUSBAND SAYS SHE TRIED TO END LIFE

Tells of Time She Drank Chloroform — Her Hat Found in Abandoned Skiff, but He Hopes to Find Her Alive—Seeking Work, His Theory.

Clinging to the hope that his beautiful and talented wife, Ethel Keating Boggess, is still alive, Dr. J. S. Boggess of the Marine Hospital Service arrived in St. Louis from Kansas City Wednesday and advanced the theory that Mrs. Boggess, who disappeared from Kansas City Aug. 2, may have wandered away in search of employment.

Dr. Boggess said that his wife had two delusions as a result of a clot on the brain. The stronger of these delusions, he said, was that she was a burden on her husband and relatives.

Blood Clot on Brain.

She had been a piano soloist with the Theodore Thomas orchestra until the blood clot paralyzed the brain centers which controlled her left hand, Dr. Boggess said, and after this affliction she had worried because she no longer was able to earn money.

This, he said, was her ruling eccentricity. The impulse to suicide was not so strong.

Drinks Chloroform.

Once, he said, Mrs. Boggess attempted suicide. This was when she drank chloroform at the home of her parents in Columbus, O., just before she wandered away from there a month ago.

Again she felt an impulse to jump into Lake Michigan while in Chicago three weeks ago.

Dr. Boggess is a keenly scientific man. He made a close study of the malady which caused his wife to exhibit eccentricities and does not wholly accept the theory of the William J. Burns detectives that Mrs. Boggess took her own life.

"I believe she wanted to show that she could still be self-supporting despite the paralysis of her left hand," he said. "This paralysis, caused by a clot on the brain, did not prevent her from using the hand for ordinary purposes. The strength of the wrist and forearm muscles was not impaired.

"She had lost only the power to perform the more delicate movements necessary to the perfection of her art as a pianiste. She could not use her left hand in playing the piano, but she cultivated the art of playing pieces which required only the right hand."

May Have Broken Engagement.

"It is conceivable that she may have obtained an engagement as a pianist on the showboat Hippodrome, which was on the river when she reached Herculaneum Aug. 4.

"A performer who could play the piano with one hand might have been considered an attraction on such a boat. It is also possible that she may have obtained an engagement to play with one hand to relieve the regular pianist.

"I do not want to believe that my wife killed herself."

Dr. Boggess saw the published photographs of the purse found in the boat at Fort Gage, Ill., along with other effects identified as having belonged to Mrs. Boggess. He said it closely resembled a purse which he owned and which was missing after Mrs. Boggess disappeared from their home in Kansas City, Aug. 2.

When Mrs. Boggess left Kansas City, her husband says, she must have had between $35 and $50. A part of this money was taken from his pocketbook while he slept.

Amounts Checked Up.

The Burns detectives regard this as further evidence that it was Mrs. Boggess whose effects were found in the skiff at Fort Gage. In the purse found in the boat was $10. Her railroad and Pullman fare from Kansas City would have been $9. It is known that the woman who purchased the skiff in St. Louis paid $18 for it. This makes a total of $37.

The detectives figure that meals and lodging from the time she left Kansas City until she bought the boat would have cost her at least $3. The remainder of the money is believed to have been expended for wearing apparel, including the new gown found in the boat when it was picked up at Fort Gage.

Dr. Boggess on his arrival in St. Louis Wednesday ran down the clew given to detectives by employes at the Ilmo Hotel in East St. Louis Tuesday afternoon.

It was said that a woman who registered there as Mrs. M. James last Sunday closely resembled pictures of Mrs. Boggess. Mrs. James left the

DR and MRS CHARLES A. HUFFMAN.

PARENTS SEEK TO RELEASE DOCTOR'S WIFE, IN ASYLUM

Indiana County Prosecutor Here to Demand Mrs. Hattie Huffman at Sanitarium.

A demand for the release of Mrs. Hattie Huffman, 30 years old, a patient in the city sanitarium, or insane asylum, will be made by Ralph H. Spaugh, Prosecuting Attorney of Bartholomew County, Ind., in behalf of the young woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard F. Orrill of Columbus, Ind.

She is the wife of Dr. Charles A. Huffman of 2346 Olive street. He was said Wednesday to be out of the city.

A dispatch from Columbus to the Post-Dispatch said Mrs. Huffman left her parents' home there two weeks ago, and that not hearing from her, the parents wrote to Dr. Huffman, and received a letter saying she had been placed in the asylum. They could not understand why this should have been done, and engaged Spaugh to visit St. Louis and make an inquiry.

Visits the Hospital.

Mrs. Orrill received a letter from Spaugh, after his arrival in St. Louis, in which he expressed the belief that Mrs. Huffman was not insane.

At the office of the Hospital Board it was learned that Spaugh had made a visit there, had consulted the records regarding the case and had said he would return with a request for the woman's release, that he might take her back to her parents' home. He is stopping at the Laclede Hotel but was not there when a reporter called.

"Dull and Lifeless."

The records of the hospital board show that Mrs. Tuffman was admitted to the city hospital Aug. 1, and that her trouble seemed to be of a negative sort, she being "dull and lifeless" in appearance and manner. It was stated in the history of the case that her head was injured a year before by a fall against a water plug, and that she had since suffered severe headaches.

She was placed in the observation ward, and there it was reported that she was quiet, and seemed to answer questions rationally, but that she was dull and listless, and did not seem to realize where she was, or why she was under treatment.

On a diagnosis of epilepsy and dementia, she was removed last Friday to the sanitarium. Dr. William Hoge of the visiting staff and Dr. Ralph Kinsella, an interne, attended her while she was in the hospital.

Dr. Huffman and Miss Orrill were married 12 years ago, the dispatch from Indiana states, but had not lived together in the last 18 months. In that time the wife has been in poor health, and has been at her parents' home, but the husband until a short time ago sent her money regularly. Her health improved recently and she went to St. Louis to visit her husband.

WILSON A 2 TO 1 FAVORITE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The first real bet in more than a week was made on the Wall street curb yesterday, when a prominent broker bet $2000 to $1000 that Gov. Wilson would be the next President.

Odds 7 to 5 were quoted that Taft would receive more electoral votes than Roosevelt, but no bets were reported.

LETTERS THREATEN WOMAN AND HER NEGRO ATTORNEY

County Grand Jury to Investigate "Tar and Feather" Communications.

SHE MAKES COMPLAINT

Webster Groves Neighbors of Mrs. Rachel Brown Excited Over Occurrences.

Anonymous letters which have threatened tar and feathers for Mrs. Rachel Brown of Webster Groves, because she employs a negro attorney to look after her law business, will be a basis for an investigation by the St. Louis County grand jury.

Oscar H. Bollman, foreman of the grand jury, intimated to a reporter for the Post-Dispatch Wednesday that the matter would be presented to that body soon after its reconvening Aug. 26. He had heard of the anonymous letters and said he had been informed that neighbors of Mrs. Brown were greatly excited over the matter.

Complains to Prosecutor.

July 29 Mrs. Brown, who is separated from her husband, made complaint to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Brackman at Clayton. She showed him a letter which was signed "The White People of the Fourth Ward." In this was a threat that if she had anything more to do with "a certain negro" both of them would be treated to a "first-class coat of tar and feathers."

She told Brackman the negro referred to was Elam Hale, a lawyer and politician of Webster. She said her husband had given Hale a power of attorney to transact business for him in his absence.

"Mr. Hale is representing me in some cases I have in the Circuit Court at Clayton," Brackman quotes her as saying, "and is a good lawyer and a perfect gentleman."

Slander Suit Threatened.

Brackman says he advised Mrs. Brown to employ a white attorney and that she became angry at him. Subsequently Hale visited Prosecuting Attorney Mills and threatened to sue Brackman for slander, Mills says.

Mills said he had made an informal inquiry into the situation and found some indignation among Mrs. Brown's neighbors. Hale calls at the Brown home frequently, he added, to consult his client.

FOUND DEAD IN ALTON, PISTOL BESIDE HIM

"E. Matthew, 5339 Cote Brilliante Avenue" Is Address in Man's Pocketbook.

A well-dressed man, apparently 20 years old, was found dead in Alton Wednesday morning at Front and Langdon streets, a bullet hole in his breast and a revolver beside him.

In his pocketbook were $1 and a paper with this name and address: E. Matthew, 5339 Cote Brilliante avenue.

A pint of whisky was found in one of his pockets.

At 5339 Cote Brilliante avenue, the home of Daniel Curry, Miss Nellie Curry told reporters she had a friend, Miss Ella Matthew of Marissa, Ill., who had lately been her visitor. She thought the man who killed himself in Alton might have met this young woman and might have made a memorandum of her St. Louis address, but she does not remember that such a man ever called.

Miss Matthew has two brothers, she said, but their names are Willard and Roland. They live in Marissa.

HOUSE PASSES THE STEEL BILL OVER PRESIDENT'S VETO

Contest for Measure Begins Immediately After Executives Message Is Received.

COTTON BILL CARRIES

Has Amendment Repealing All Canadian Reciprocity Acts Except Free Paper Provision.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Democratic cotton tariff bill passed the Senate today, 36 to 19. It carried an amendment repealing all of the Canadian reciprocity act except the free paper provision.

Progressive Republican Senators voting for the bill were Borah, Bristow, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Kenyon, La Follette, Poindexter and Works.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Within three hours after President Taft had sent the steel tariff bill back to Congress with a message of disapproval, the House today passed it over his veto.

The vote was 173 to pass it, 83 against it and one present and not voting. It is not expected to repass the Senate.

In a message to Congress the President said he disapproved the measure because it provided for revenue only and took no account of protection for American industries. He condemned the Ways and Means Committee for refusing public hearings on the bill. His veto was expected.

Taft gave as another reason for his veto that the bill affected not only the iron and steel industry, but 59 allied industries, which, he said, were worth separate classification.

Taft wrote he was not prepared to say there were no items in the steel schedule which ought not to be reduced, but he pointed out that its ad valorem rate was an apparent reduction of 15 per cent from the duties of the Wilson law.

The President has said he also would veto the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill carrying riders to abolish the Commerce Court, and limit tenure of office of civil service employes.

By doing so the President would hold up his own salary, that of every member of Congress and every employe of the United States courts. Speculation of the possibilities of passing the bill over his veto are being discussed and leaders are canvassing the House and Senate.

As soon as the President's veto message had been read the House Democrats began an attempt to repass the steel bill over the executive's disapproval. The Republican leaders entered upon a determiend fight against the plan and a long debate was precipitated.

Speaker Clark finally ruled that the question of considering immediately the President's veto was a question of the highest constitutional privilege and therefore displaced all other business before the House. Minority Leader Mann appealed from the decision of the chair, but lost by an overwhelming vote.

Majority Leader Underwood provided one hour's debate, to be equally divided, at the expiration of which a vote on passing the bill over the President's veto was to be taken.

VETOED WOOL BILL REPASSED IN HOUSE

Hope for Measure in Senate Slim, but Vote on Cotton Schedule Will Be Urged.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—With a margin of only five votes, the House passed the wool tariff revision bill over President Taft's veto. The vote, 174 to 80, was made possible only by the defection of 21 Republicans, who voted with the Democrats. The announcement of Democratic success created a wild scene in the House.

Less than an hour after the wool measure had been repassed in the House, the conferees on the sugar tariff bill met and disagreed, and this action is expected to mark the end of sugar tariff consideration in the present session.

Democratic and progressive leaders of the Senate do not believe the wool bill can be passed in that body over the President's veto.

275 LBS. OF PENNIES PAID

Bar Sweepings of Many Years Number 40,000 Coins.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 14.—A chest containing 275 pounds of pennies is on deposit at a bank here today to the credit of Carl W. Stordant, a real estate man. The pennies, more than 40,000 in all, were turned over to Stordant as an initial payment to bind the sale of a downtown restaurant.

The purchaser, a cafe owner, had taken in the pennies over his bar during a long course of years. He had made a habit of brushing all the pennies he received into a slot which connected with a chest in the cellar.

ASTOR HEIR ARRIVES—A BOY

Mother and Son Both Are Well

HIS NAME IS JOHN JACOB

MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

Baby Becomes Direct Heir to $3,000,000 as Directed in Will of Multi-Millionaire Who Went Down With Titanic.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, survivor of the Titanic disaster, in which her husband, the late Col. John Jacob Astor, lost his life, last April, gave birth to a son at 8:15 o'clock this morning.

The new arrival has been named John Jacob Astor, after its father. The baby becomes a direct heir to $3,000,000 of the Astor fortune.

The attending physician said:

"Mother and son are in good condition."

Announcement of the birth was made a few minutes before 9 o'clock by Dr. Edwin B. Cragin, who has been in constant attendance in the Astor mansion, 804 Fifth avenue, for some days. Dr. Cragin came to the door and had one of the footmen hand a note to a waiting throng of reporters.

Where there had been dense crowds of the morbidly curious waiting for news of the birth of the Astor heir all yesterday afternoon and for almost a week, there were only a few pedestrians going by today when Dr. Cragin sent out word of the birth.

The young mother's father, William H. Force, had not arrived at the mansion when the baby was born.

He got the news by telephone and sped to the house in a taxicab. He leaped out of the vehicle, smiling from ear to ear and showing his teeth. Without saying a word he darted up the steps and fairly raced into the house.

The fact that its father proved himself a hero in the Titanic disaster by stepping aside to let women and children take places in lifeboats and that the wife from whom he parted was his bride of only a few months, coupled with the large fortune which was provided for the posthumous child, have lent unusual interest to the arrival of the youngest Astor.

The new Astor baby is one of the few children ever born with a fortune as large as $3,000,000 in its own right. Col. Astor had provided that whether the child was a boy or girl it should receive the same sum, and even if the stork brought more than one child, Col. Astor's will also covered that contingency, as it read:

"I bequeath such number of separate sums of $3,000,000 each as shall be equal to the number of my children who shall survive me other than my son, William Vincent Astor, and my daughter, Ava Muriel Astor."

ONE DEAD, MANY HURT IN ILLINOIS WRECK

Great Preparations for Reception of the Baby

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.

As early as Aug. 1 the Astor mansion was made ready for the reception of the heir.

Dr. Edward B. Cragin, an expert, was prepared to move in at a moment's notice and Aug. 4 he took up residence in the Astor home and remained there until the baby arrived.

Dr. Reuel B. Kimball, the Astor family physician, also was in constant attendance. Three nurses watched Mrs. Astor in shifts of eight hours each, and last Sunday the battalion of nurses was increased to six or seven.

Mrs. Astor was reported in excellent physical health. Her mother, Mrs. Force, was her constant companion.

ODELL TESTIFIES T. R. NEGOTIATED HARRIMAN GIFT

Former Governor Tells Senate Committee He Saw Roosevelt's Letter Asking Financier to Call, and That at Meeting President Spoke of Worry Over Money.

$240,000 CAMPAIGN DONATION FOLLOWED

$40,000 of It Used by National Committee, Rest in New York—Says President Offered to Aid by Making Depew Ambassador to France.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Former Gov. Benjamin B. Odell of New York told the Senate committee investigating campaign funds, a story of Edward H. Harriman's $240,000 contribution of 1904, so different from that told to the committee by George R. Sheldon, that members of the committee asked Mr. Odell how he accounted for the variances.

The former Governor remarked that Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican National Committee in 1904, might have "told some white lies" to Sheldon about it. Sheldon was associated with Bliss unofficially in 1904 and was treasurer in 1908.

The substance of Odell's testimony was that President Roosevelt asked Harriman in 1904 to come to the White House to talk about campaign funds. Following that talk, said Odell, Harriman raised $240,000 for the campaign and turned it over to the Republican National Committee.

Odell said he received $200,000 of that contribution for the New York State campaign and the balance remained in the hands of the National Committee.

Would Take Care of Depew.

Odell testified that Harriman had told him Col. Roosevelt had agreed that if necessary he would help out in the New York senatorial situation by appointing Senator Chauncey M. Depew Ambassador to France, thus leaving the senatorial contest clear for Frank S. Black, former Governor of New York.

Sheldon had testified that the contribution had been arranged between Bliss and Harriman, and that Col. Roosevelt never knew about it until a long time after election. He denied that it had been a subject of correspondence between the former President and Harriman.

Sheldon had further testified that Odell had come to Bliss to see about raising money for the State campaign, and that later Harriman and Bliss got together "about $250,000 which was handed over to the State Committee and never went to the National Committee."

Chairman Clapp introduced the subject of the Harriman contribution by asking the former Governor what he knew of Harriman having stated in a letter to Sidney Webster that Roosevelt asked Harriman to come to Washington during the campaign of 1904.

Saw Letter From Roosevelt.

"In October of 1904," began Odell, "I was requested by Mr. Harriman to lunch with him. I went to his office, and during lunch he showed me a letter from President Roosevelt asking him to come to Washington. I was chairman of the State Committee that year. Mr. Harriman asked me what I supposed the President wanted.

"I told him my opinion was that he wanted to consult with him as to New York and the financial condition of the National Committee. Mr. Harriman said he did not want to go, but after talking it over he told me he would.

"I requested Mr. Harriman to bring the President's attention to the senatorial situation, and tell him that the organization was in favor of Gov. Black for Senator, but as yet, had a kindly feeling toward Senator Depew, and would like to have him taken care of; that, if Mr. Roosevelt could do so, it would be a happy solution for him to appoint Mr. Depew Ambassador to France.

Harriman Tells of Interview.

Mr. Harriman came to Washington, and a few days afterwards I again lunched with him," continued Odell. His narrative was uninterrupted by questions and every senator gave close attention.

"He told me I was correct—that the President was anxious about the financial condition of the National Committee, and would like to have Mr. Harriman's help. Mr. Harriman said he asked about the senatorial matter and the President said that if it was necessary he would do as I requested.

"Mr. Harriman said he was ready to help the national committee. I suggested that he wait until the committee exhausted other sources before giving assistance.

"Subsequently Mr. Cortelyou came to my office and said he was unable to raise the rest of the money for the State Committee. The rest amounted to about $200,000. I said it was an embarrassing situation for me, and he asked if I could help out. I replied I would see.

Harriman Arranges Matter.

"Later I called up Mr. Harriman and told him if he desired to help the National Committee it was the proper time to do so. He asked me to have Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou come down to see him. I communicated with them and they went.

"Later that day Mr. Harriman telephoned me that he had made arrangements for the raising of money, and had raised $240,000 which he had turned over to Mr. Bliss. That same day Mr. Bliss came over and gave me the National Committee's check, signed by himself as treasurer, for $200,000."

$500,000 Given to New York.

After his story of the contribution, Odell explained his relation with the national committee that year. He said that in July, 1904, an agreement had been made between himself and the national committee, represented by Cortelyou and Bliss, whereby the national committee was to give the New York State Committee $500,000.

Early in the campaign, Odell said, he got $100,000 from the committee for a canvass of New York City, and later $50,000 for manning the polls during registration. In all, $300,000 of an expected $500,000 was turned over before Cortelyou called on him to say he was unable to pay the rest.

"There was no question in my mind as to the success of the national and State tickets that year," Odell continued. "What embarrassed me was that I had agreed to give to the various district chairmen in New York along the Hudson River and in the counties on Long Island, consisting of 2300 districts and containing 800,000 voters, this $200,000 the national committee owed me."

Insists Sheldon Was Wrong.

Chairman Clapp called attention to George R. Sheldon's testimony that Bliss had informed him that Odell was alarmed over the success of the State ticket and asked for help for that reason, and that the Harriman contribution was not made through the National Committee, but through the State Committee.

Odell insisted he was correct and Sheldon was in error.

"Sometimes a person in politics tells white lies," ventured Odell.

"What do you mean?" demanded Senator Clapp; "that Mr. Sheldon told this committee white lies?"

"Oh, no. I mean that Mr. Bliss may not have given Mr. Sheldon the exact situation," returned the former Governor.

Some Senators suggested Odell might not have told Bliss the correct situation, but Odell declared he was so close to Bliss that he would never have thought of concealing anything from him.

Senator Clapp asked a second time of Odell if he was sure the Harriman contribution was made through the National Committee.

"Absolutely," said Mr. Odell.

"Are you sure Mr. Cortelyou was a party to the arrangement to give to New York State $500,000?"

"To the best of my recollection."

$200,000 Additional Raised.

In addition to contributions from the National Committee Odell said the State Committee that year collected about $200,000 from other sources. He could not remember who contributed to the latter amount but was sure none of the trusts were contributors.

Odell's testimony ended with a few questions about the campaign of 1908.

DR. GUSTAVE MORITZ TAKEN FOR SPEEDING

Oculist Said to Have Protested He Was on Professional Call Requiring Haste.

Dr. Gustave Moritz, 5037 Cabanne avenue, an oculist, was in the First District Police Court Wednesday charged with exceeding the speed limit in his auto. His case was continued until Friday.

Motorcycle Patrolman Shaw, who arrested him, told reporters he overtook Moritz on Washington avenue, between Pendleton and Euclid avenues, Tuesday afternoon, and that his speedometer showed the oculist's car was going between 30 and 35 miles an hour. There were two other men in the machine, he said.

He declared Moritz told him he was on a professional call which demanded haste. The policeman followed him and the oculist stopped his machine in front of his own residence and then drove to a house in the 5200 block on Kensington avenue, the home of one of his companions, Shaw said. Moritz was allowed to sign his own bond at the Page boulevard station.

She carried the weapon into the restaurant. Dineen obtained the revolver and charged Hagele with carrying a concealed weapon.

BASHFUL MAN'S BRIDE IN A 6 A. M. CEREMONY

MRS. ERWIN W. ECKHARDT.

BASHFUL YOUTH WEDS AT 6 A. M. TO AVOID "CUT-UPS"

Erwin W. Eckhardt Motors From Belleville, Reaches Miss Adele Riordan's Home at 5 A. M.

The timidity of Erwin W. Eckhardt, son of a well-to-do Belleville grocer, was so great that he couldn't think of facing a crowd of wedding "cut-ups," Wednesday. For this reason he and Miss Adele C. Riordan of 4116 Westminster place advanced their marriage six hours and got out of the city on their honeymoon trip three hours before the time originally set for the ceremony.

According to his bride this was not the first time Eckhardt has shown himself timorous in the matter of marriage. Although they were to be married Wednesday, it was no until Saturday night, she said, that he mustered the courage to ask her mother for her hand.

Eckhardt, who is 23 years old, and Miss Riordan, who is 21, first met three years ago when their respective families were making a boat trip to St. Paul.

Their original wedding plans were for a ceremony at the New Cathedral Chapel at noon. A little after midnight, however, Eckhardt, in an automobile, left Belleville, where he conducts a grocery. He reached Miss Riordan's home at 5 o'clock. An hour later, accompanied by members of the bride's family, they were at the chapel. The Rev. Francis Gilfillan said the ceremony.

Friends of the couple had planned to be at the Riordan home at 12:30 and had expected to play the usual pranks at such occasions.

OLD MAN ENDS LIFE BY SLASHING WRISTS

Woman Sees Him Throw Up Hands and Fall From a Stump in a Vacant Lot.

Sitting at her parlor window at noon Wednesday, Mrs. S. L. Langsdale of 5923 Ridge avenue saw a man throw up his hands and fall from a stump in a vacant lot about 50 feet from Hamilton and Ridge avenues. She telephoned the police, and they found a man with wounds in both arms. A razor with which he had slashed his wrists was found. Apparently he sat on the stump until he fell over from exhaustion from loss of blood. He died as he was being taken from the ambulance at the city hospital. He appeared to be 75 years old.

Naturalization papers to William Raesmer were found in his pockets by the police. The certificate was issued in Macon County, Ill., Sept. 25, 1890. There was nothing else on his person by which he could be identified.

HARBOR DEPUTY'S BODY IS RECOVERED

Taken From River Only Block From Point Where He Went Down.

The body of Chester H. Brunswick, Deputy Harbor and Wharf Commissioner, who was drowned in the Mississippi River Monday at noon by the overturning of a yawl, was found Wednesday forenoon at the foot of Walnut street, only a block from where he was drowned.

The body was found by Deputy Harbor Commissioner Gillaspy, who has been searching for it, assisted by other men, since Brunswick was drowned.

SENATE VOTES TO MAKE THE PENSION FUNDS AVAILABLE

Bureau's Funds Run Out Because of Congress' Delay in Making Appropriation.

MANY ARE DESTITUTE

"No Pension in July, Had to Go to Poorhouse," Writes a Man From Florida.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Senate today repassed the pension appropriation bill, with a provision abolishing all pension agencies Jan. 31, 1913. The House is expected to approve the bill without delay, making all pension appropriations immediately available.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—"No pension in July; had to go to poorhouse," wrote a pensioner at Pensacola, Fla., in a letter received by the Pension Bureau today.

The Bureau faces the greatest financial crisis in its history, as the result of the lack of funds to pay pensioners. The San Francisco agency has a balance of exactly 7 cents and Detroit only 4 cents. Reports from all the agencies received at the bureau tell the same story of no money for the veterans and their dependents on the nation's pension list.

This condition is due to the delay of Congress in passing the pension appropriation bill. The extension of the old appropriation bill for a 15-day period so that one-twenty-fourth of last year's appropriation might be used to pay less than half of the $15,000,000 due on Aug. 4, has left 200,000 pensioners unpaid at Indianapolis, Knoxville, Louisville, New York, Philadelphia and Topeka. There is no hope for them until Congress acts.

Acting Pension Agent Fountain, at New York, reported today to Commissioner Davenport that the conditions there are very serious, as many army and navy pensioners are destitute and that "the withholding of their pension money is almost criminal."

Only Small Sums on Hand.

The funds available today are $7.79 at Philadelphia and $97 at Louisville, where $500,000 is due, and $87 at New York City. There is not a cent at Concord, N. H.; only enough at Indianapolis to last one day; Columbus has $124 and Boston $145.

Practically all the regulars at army posts in the United States have received no pay since June 1. This situation was caused by the delay in passing the general deficiency bill. The regular army appropriation was exhausted in May.

July payments really are available under the resolution of July 1, which extended last year's appropriations for another month, but disbursement of that was held up in the paymaster's office with the expectation that Congress would soon pass the regular bill. Paymaster-General Smith said today he would disburse some of the money available if the deficiency bill was not enacted this week.

Officers have received most of their pay, because they are obliged to support themselves. The War Department felt the enlisted men would suffer least, because the Government provides for them quarters, clothing, food and medical attendance. The army bill is yet to be acted upon in the Senate and later will go to conference with the House.

Compromise Is Offered.

The army veterans in need may be relieved at once if the House will meet the Senate's new proposal to abolish the 17 outlying pension agencies. The House wants all abolished.

The Senate Pensions Committee today decided to suggest a compromise by abolishing the agencies on Feb. 1, 1913. The whole bill was scheduled to come up in the Senate today with an amendment to that effect.

It is believed the House will accept it. Nearly $9,000,000 is now due to pensioners.

WOMAN IN COURT PUNCHES POLICEMAN

Protege of Ellen Maher Gets $50 Added to Her Fine for Resisting Arrest.

Maggie Head, 36 years old, a protege of the late Ellen Maher, who is said to have whipped more policemen than any other person that ever lived in St. Louis, was in the First District Police Court Wednesday. Patrolman Dineen had charged her with being drunk and having resisted him when he arrested her.

Maggie eyed Dineen disdainfully, as he told Judge Kimmel how she had fought him all the way to the police station. Dineen left the stand and walked over and stood by the Marshal's desk as a deputy started to lead Maggie back to a cell. When Maggie came abreast of Dineen she shook off the deputy and glared at the blue coat.

"So you call that resisting you, do you?" she demanded. "Why, you turnip, you don't know what resist means. I was just playing with you. Now I'm going to show you what resist means. Watch me."

Before the patrolman could get out of her reach she had landed heavily on his jaw with her "right." She was starting to follow it up when two deputies seized her.

When the commotion in the crowded courtroom subsided Judge Kimmel had Maggie brought before him again and fined her $50. He had previous fined her $20 for being drunk and $30 for resisting the officer.

FIRST BULL MOOSE HAT IN CINCINNATI

THE CINCINNATI "BULL MOOSE" HAT

Original Model Shown at Fall Wholesale Millinery Opening.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14.

WITH characteristic boldness, the bull moose hat has originated right in Cincinnati, home of President Taft. It was placed on display on occasion of the fall wholesale millinery opening this week and attracted plenty of attention.

The original model was of black taffeta, shirred on a small, round brim in such a manner that a loose mass of the silk was pushed to the top. Several rows of shirring across the middle of the crown produced two ears or "horns" which stand up in highly belligerent fashion. A round, saucy face and dancing eyes go well with the bull moose hat.

U. S. VICE-CONSUL IN COLOMBIA IS SHOT AND KILLED

Message About Cartagena Official Says Death Occurred "While Hunting."

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—William Bruce McMaster, American Vice-Consul at Cartagena, Colombia, has been shot and killed.

McMaster was killed last Sunday "while hunting," according to the report to the State Department which came from American Consul Kemper at Cartagena.

An attack upon his life two years ago and the strain upon his relations with the Colombian judicial authorities, as a result of his efforts to obtain full punishment for the would-be assassins, excites the suspicion of officials here as to the cause of his death.

About two years ago, because he had killed a native in self-defense, McMaster was attacked by several Colombians and dangerously wounded. He was arrested on the charge of murder and, although acquitted by a lower court, was found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment by an appellate tribunal.

The United State Government intervened and there was a new trial, which resulted in his acquittal in June, 1910, but he had ever since been fearful of further violence.

McMaster was born in Colombia, of American parents, in 1875. He was educated in the United States and Colombia and later became a ranch owner in Colombia. His service in the consular corps began in 1895, when he became a messenger in the Cartagena Consulate. In 1904 he was appointed Vice-Consul, and in 1908 became Vice and Deputy Consul.

CORSICAN PROCEEDS; IS NOT IN DANGER

Captain Wirelesses That Hole in Liner That Hit Iceberg Is Above Water Line.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—The Allan Line officials say that the steamer Corsican, which Monday afternoon collided with an iceberg, is on her way to Liverpool and that there are no grounds for believing she was more seriously injured than at first reported.

This afternoon the Allan Line offices received the following message from Capt. Cook of the Corsican:

"The weather has cleared. Corsican proceeding about half speed. Absolutely no cause for alarm; size of hole in stern five feet above the water line."

The dimensions of the hole in the Corsican will be wired to Liverpool so that plates can be prepared and fitted when she arrives.

SATAN RED TO BE A POPULAR COLOR ON SMART HATS

Levrette, Citron, and Moonlight, Crow and Bottle Fly Blues Also in Favor.

CREATIONS TO BE SMALL

To Be So Fashioned They Will Not Hinder Militant Suffragettes—Mourning Hats White.

Animals, fruit and suffragettes have furnished the inspirations for styles in millinery for the fall, Ora C'ne, the man milliner, told an audience of 250 milliners in a lecture at a big Washington avenue house Tuesday afternoon.

C'ne is a New York millinery designer, credited with being an authority, who is brought to St. Louis each year to give points to the hundreds of milliners from the South and Southwest during the buying season.

The animals and the fruit have supplied the ideas for the colors, he said, while the shapes of hats will be adapted to the uses of a suffragette, with particular attention being given to campaigning types, creations in which the women will feel comfortable and look well while making stump speeches.

Narrow and Close-Fitting.

The new hats will be narrow and close fitting, running from the front to the back. The hair will be gathered low at the back of the head and combed in a fashion to appear careless.

One of the new creations in colors will be levrette. This color is taken from the grayhound and is a brownish gray. It will become either blonde or brunette and will go with suede shoes, silk stockings, chameuse satin for the dress, velvet for the hat, with ostrich feathers or laces, kid gloves and fancy jewelry of the same color.

Satan Red Another Color.

Another color in hats will be Satan or devil red, also called tomato red. C'ne explained that this color is the same red seen in flames.

A fruit color is citron. This color is not intended particularly for the suffragette and in fact is not altogether the color of a lemon. It has a brownish tinge like a very old lemon. In the blues there are "moonlight" blues and a very dark blue called crow blue. There is another blue called corbeau or bottle fly blue.

Mourning Hats White.

Mourning hats are to be white. They will be trimmed with white crape. This style, an idea imported from China, was introduced in New York recently by the widow of John Jacob Astor.

Ribbons and braid will have the call for trimming. In the warmer climates there will be little foliage on the hats. One says the sun melts the wax and withers the artificial flowers.

WATCHMAN BY PHONE WARNS OF A FIRE

Mrs. Wiggins' Home at 6288 Bartmer Destroyed--She Faints Twice Carrying Out Furniture.

Fire which destroyed the two-story brick residence of Mrs. Florence D. Wiggins at 6288 Bartmer avenue, St. Louis County, Tuesday night, attracted a big crowd from Wellston, University City, Clayton, and West St. Louis. Several St. Louis engine companies, as well as the one from University City, responded to telephone calls, but as there was only one water plug, only one of them could be of use.

Clyde Taylor, a night watchman, discovered the flames, which started in the garret. After telephoning to fire companies, he called up John Eckelkamp, a neighbor of Mrs. Wiggins, and Eckelkamp awakened all the neighbors.

Mrs. Wiggins occupied the first floor of her property. The second floor was rented to Edward E. Horn and wife. Part of Mrs. Wiggins' furniture was carried out, but Horn's was all destroyed. Mrs. Wiggins fainted twice from her exertions in helping to save her effects. The building, valued at $3500, was a loss. The house and contents were insured.

WARRANT FOR FORMER F. A. STEER COACHMAN

A warrant charging George Summers with criminal libel was issued Wednesday by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilson, based on the abusive and threatening letters, which, it is suspected, were written by Summers to his former employer, F. A. Steer.

Three clerks in Steer's haberdashery establishment read the letters before Steer did, and this made a libel charge possible, as it would not have been if none but Steer had seen the letters. The letters were not in envelopes, and were thrust under the store door, so that the first employes arriving read them.

Summers was until a few weeks ago Steer's coachman. The latest of the letters was thrust under the door of Steer's country home, while the house was under guard.

The populace, however, displayed complete indifference in regard to the change of rulers, as for some time the Sultans have been looked on as mere figureheads.

MAJOR SEES STATE COMMITTEE HERE, THEN GOES EAST

Gubernatorial Nominee Wants Two Weeks' Seclusion—Has No Choice for Chairman.

ALL LEADERS PLEDGE AID

Subcommittee Will Be Appointed to Arrange for Opening of Headquarters Here.

After a conference with Attorney-General Major, Democratic nominee for Governor, and three other successful candidates in the State primary election, the State Committee at the American Hotel Wednesday decided to appoint a subcommittee of three members to open headquarters in St. Louis and start the campaign in the eastern half of Missouri.

Major, after a brief conference with the committee, boarded a train at Union Station for the East. He said he was worn out after the long campaign and was going away for a rest. He did not make known his destination, saying that he wished absolute seclusion for at least two weeks.

It was expected he would make some suggestions as to his choice for chairman of the committee when it meets for organization in Jefferson City Sept. 8. The Attorney-General told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had no choice for chairman now.

Shannon to Name Committee.

Chairman Joseph Shannon said he would name the subcommittee later in the day. The Kansas City headquarters will be retained to start the campaign in the western part of the State. The members of the committee expressed the view that as the new committee could not get down to business until late in September, it was necessary for the old organization to get the campaign under way.

Shannon said the national committee was eager for the State committee to raise funds to aid the national campaign.

"The national committee wishes to enlist the support of the newspapers throughout the State in the campaign to raise funds," said Chairman Shannon. "While we would like to help the national committee, I think we should take care of Missouri first. We sent $60,000 to Indiana to help carry that State a few years ago, and lost Missouri. Indiana also went Republican. We must take care of Missouri before trying to help other states."

Maj. John T. Barker, nominee for Attorney-General; William R. Painter, nominee for Lieutenant-Governor; James T. Bradshaw, nominee for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner, and the representatives of several other candidates attended the meeting.

Nominee's Wishes Followed.

A subcommittee comprised of B. H. Rucker, A. L. Harty and Arthur J. Fitzsimmons was appointed to confer with Major and the other candidates to ascertain their wishes as to campaign plans. The result of the conference was the report favoring the appointment of the subcommittee to open St. Louis headquarters and start the campaign.

Chairman Fitzsimmons of the City Committee pledged the hearty co-operation of his organization with the State Committee to carry the State. Those at the meeting declared that Major and Wilson would carry the State by a substantial majority in November.

Many leaders who fought Major in the primary campaign called on him to assure him of their support. W. D. Vandiver, who made speeches for Cowherd in Southeast Missouri, was among the early callers.

Vandiver to Speak for Him.

"I am ready now to make as good speeches for you as I made against you in the primary campaign," said Vandiver. "I wish to assure you of my support, and to congratulate you on your victory."

GROCERY MANAGER FREED

Employment of Woman More Than 9 Hours Explained.

W. H. Albers, manager of the Kroger Grocery Co., 4100 Easton avenue, was discharged from an accusation of violating the 9-hour-day law for women employes by Judge Miller in the Court of Criminal Correction Wednesday.

Albers was accused in a warrant issued by Factory Inspector Williams of permitting Miss Theresa Glunz, a cashier, to work 10½ hours July 31. Miss Glunz and Miss Bernice Patton, another cashier, testified that Miss Glunz worked the extra time to accommodate Miss Patton, who wished to get away from the store ahead of time that day. The arrest was attributed to spite work by a discharged employe of the store.

Anton Hideberger, 50 years old, of 4238 Cote Brilliante avenue was pitched into the street when a buggy he was driving was struck in the rear by the automobile of James Brazill of 1515 Coleman street, in front of 4275 Easton avenue, at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

Hideberger's skull probably was fractured, physicians say. Brazill picked up the injured man and took him in the machine to the West End Dispensary and from there to the Hideberger home. Both vehicles were traveling westward at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Boggess Seen by Many Persons on River Journey

hotel in a taxicab Monday. She was traced to a rooming house on Delmar avenue. Dr. Boggess with Burns and city detectives went there Wednesday and saw the woman. She was not Mrs. Boggess.

The trail of Mrs. Boggess led Wednesday from Herculaneum to Festus and De Soto, Mo. A woman answering her description was seen in Festus Aug. 5 and in De Soto Aug. 6 or 7, according to information secured by the Post-Dispatch and given the Burns' Detective Agency and Dr. P. M. Carrington of the Marine Hospital Service, who have been directing the search from St. Louis.

De Soto, Herculaneum and Festus, the three towns in which Mrs. Boggess is said to have been seen, are easily accessible to each other by railroad. De Soto is 42 miles from St. Louis on the Iron Mountain line. Festus and Herculaneum are three miles apart on the Mississippi River & Bonne Terre Railroad. Festus is also on the Frisco, and trains on that line bound for Texas points stop there.

To reach De Soto from Festus or Herculaneum it is necessary to take a Mississippi River & Bonne Terre train to Riverside, five miles north, and change there to an Iron Mountain train. Riverside is about 15 miles north of De Soto.

The new clews from Festus and De Soto gave the rise to the hope on the part of the husband and Dr. Carrington that Mrs. Boggess, instead of having ended her life in the Mississippi River, still is alive. The detectives, however, are convinced she drowned herself.

The possibility that Mrs. Boggess may have fallen into the hands of river tramps is being considered by the detectives. Many gangs of these men are to be found floating along the river, eking out a living by any means possible. Some of them are known to be desperate characters. The detectives consider it remarkable that Mrs. Boggess got as far as Herculaneum in her skiff without being molested by the waterfront tramps.

The woman's purse, glove, night dress and panama hat, taken from the little boat "Spot," when it was found drifting on the river at Fort Gage, Ill., Aug. 5, were sent by express Tuesday night to Mrs. Boggess' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keating of Columbus, O., after the articles had been identified as the property of Mrs. Boggess.

Louis Schroeder fo 2004 South Second street, a boat builder, has told detectives that the boat "Spot," in which Mrs. Boggess' hat and other effects were found, was sold by him to a woman on the afternoon of Aug. 3. He says the woman closely resembled the published pictures of Mrs. Boggess. She paid $18 for the boat and told him she was going to row down the river to a point this side of Cape Girardeau, which is 150 miles from St. Louis by river and 78 miles below Fort Gage.

The woman was taken to Schroeder by Frank Alles of 1505 South Seventh street, whom she had met on the street and asked where she could buy a boat.

Mrs. Boggess, several months ago, suffered a partial paralysis of the left hand. This interfered with her remarkable ability as a pianist, but was not serious enough to disable her arm.

Salesman Saw Woman.

In a long-distance telephone conversation, Wednesday, with the Post-Dispatch, H. I. White, proprietor of the White Hotel at Herculaneum, Mo., on the river, where a woman answering Mrs. Boggess' description, ate breakfast Aug. 4, was able to recall additional details of the woman's visit. Mrs. White also remembered several things that neither she nor her husband had thought to mention to detectives and reporters investigating the case.

One thing White regarded as significant was that a traveling salesman who ate dinner at the White Hotel on Wednesday or Thursday after the woman's visit, saw Mrs. Boggess' picture in the Post-Dispatch and declared he had seen her at De Soto, Mo., the day before.

On Trip Down the River.

The traveling man's description of the woman tallied with that of the woman who was at Herculaneum and with printed descriptions of Mrs. Boggess, White said. As the hotel does not keep a register, the traveling man's name could not be learned. He departed from Herculaneum the same day.

The woman arrived at the hotel about 7:30 a. m., White said, and announced that she was making a little trip down the river in a boat. She said nothing about who she was, where she had come from or where she was going. She wore a blue linen suit, a panama hat with black velvet band, and long white gloves. She carried a white hand bag, from which she took a small black seal folding purse when paying her bill, Mrs. White said. With the exception of the hand bag, these things correspond with those found in the skiff picked up at Fort Gage and identified as having belonged to Mrs. Boggess.

"She complained on arriving that her hands were cold," said Mrs. White, "so I took her into the kitchen and she warmed her hands over the range. I noticed that they were very white and well kept. Her face also was fair. Her front teeth appeared to me to be rather prominent.

"She asked the population of the town and remarked that the K. of P. hall, which is just across the street from the hotel, was a very large building for a place the size of Herculaneum.

"In the dining room she sat at a table with four or five young men and exchanged the ordinary comment with them. She ate a hearty breakfast and seemed to be in the best of spirits."

"An Unnatural Look."

Mr. and Mrs. White said the woman, in speech and manner, appeared to be perfectly rational. White, however, said he noticed a singular expression, which he described as "an unnatural look," about her eyes.

V. S. Lockhart, a young man employed in the freight yards near the Herculaneum river front, told the Post-Dispatch the woman came to him after leaving the hotel and asked, "Where's my skiff?"

Lockhart said he replied that he did not know she had a skiff.

"Yes," she told him, "I have a skiff down here somewhere."

Lockhart then went with her to the river front and helped her find the boat. It was the little craft with the name "Spot" lettered on the bow, he said. Another boat was moored beside it and in this the woman laid her handbag and a magazine. Then she seated herself in the "Spot" and asked Lockhart to push her off.

Disappears Down River.

"Don't you want to take your handbag and magazine?" Lockhart asked her.

"Oh, yes," she replied, "I was forgetting them."

Lockhart handed the articles to her and pushed the boat off. The woman said she was going to row across the river, to Harrisonville, Ill., and look at a showboat which had been in Herculaneum the night before. When the boat was well away from the shore it was caught by the current and carried rapidly down stream.

"I'm not going to the showboat very fast, am I?" the woman called to Lockhart. "I believe I'll come back."

She then rowed to the comparatively still water near the shore and started down the river, Lockhart said. He watched her until she disappeared from view, half a mile down the river.

A woman was seen in Festus Aug. 5 by Mrs. W. J. Adams, proprietor of the Adams Hotel, who said the description fitted that published of Mrs. Boggess.

The woman wore a white straw hat with black band and a blue linen suit, Mrs. Adams said. She walked past the hotel and passed down the opposite side of the same street a few minutes later. She appeared to be perfectly at ease, Mrs. Adams said.

Mrs. Adams said she did not see the woman again. Nobody else who had seen the woman in Festus could be found. The Marshal of the town said he had not seen or heard of any such person.

Tells of Selling Boat.

Schroeder, the boatman, Wednesday told a Post-Dispatch reporter of the sale of the "Spot" boat to a woman, whom he believes to have been Mrs. Boggess, on the afternoon of Aug. 3.

He and his partner, he said, were at their boatyard at the foot of Lesperance street at 4:30 p. m. when Frank Alles, another boatman, arrived there escorting a woman who wore a panama hat, a blue linen skirt and a white lace shirt waist. Alles said the woman asked him where she could buy a skiff.

Boat to Carry Four.

Schroeder showed the woman a boat, but she said it was too small.

"I must have one that will carry four passengers," she said.

Schroeder told her he had a larger boat on the other side of the river, and offered to go after it. The woman said she was in a hurry and would go with him. She and Schroeder and his partner and Alles got into a skiff and went across the river. There she inspected the "Spot" boat and said she would take it. She got into it and tried the oars. The boatmen say she handled them well.

Waves to Boatmen.

The four rowed back to the St. Louis side. On the way over, Schroeder says, a launch passed close to them. The men asked her if she wasn't afraid the waves from the launch would swamp the skiff. She laughed and replied:

"No. I'm accustomed to handling a skiff and I love to get in the wake of a boat."

On reaching the St. Louis shore the woman opened a small black, flat purse and took $18 from it to pay for the skiff. She remained in the skiff. The men pushed her off and she rowed strongly until about 200 feet from shore, when she swung the prow of the boat downstream, shouted good-by and waved her handkerchief to the men on shore.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

GROCER TRICKED BY GIRL

He Gives Purse to Her and Later Discovers Proper Owner.

Mrs. Murdal Gallagher of 1835 O'Fallon street left her purse containing $3.50 on a counter in the butcher shop of T. H. Sonnerberg at 1308 North Twentieth street Tuesday afternoon after she had completed her shopping and went home without it.

A few minutes later a 10-year-old girl with freckled face entered the shop and said her mother had sent for a purse. Sonnerberg gave the girl the purse without hesitation and a few minutes later Mrs. Gallagher reported her loss. She said she had not sent a girl after it.

Search for Mrs. Boggess Made in Three Towns

THE trail of Mrs. Ethel Keating Boggess, missing wife of a Kansas City physician, now centers around the towns of Herculaneum, Festus, Riverside and De Soto. In three of these towns a woman answering Mrs. Boggess' description was seen.

Herculaneum is 30 miles below St. Louis, on the Mississippi River. Festus is three miles further south, off the river. De Soto is a few miles inland and is 42 miles from St. Louis by the Iron Mountain line. Riverside, through which one must pass in reaching De Soto by rail from Herculaneum or Festus, is a river port five miles north of Herculaneum. Fort Gage, where the skiff containing Mrs. Boggess' hat, glove, purse and night dress was found, is 72 miles below St. Louis by river, and 42 miles from Herculaneum.

Detectives believe Mrs. Boggess may have been seen in Festus, but doubt that she was in De Soto, because of the roundabout way by which that town is reached from the river ports. Their theory is that she went south on the boat from Herculaneum and their efforts now are directed toward finding what happened to her after that.

BURGLARS IN SIX WEST END HOMES; $127 IS STOLEN

H. L. Clark's Portland Place House and That of G. K. Warner Are Robbed.

C. A. STIX PLACE ENTERED

Three West End burglaries, in two of which money amounting to $127 was taken, came to the knowledge of the police Wednesday while they were investigating earlier reports of three other burglaries in which nothing was taken, and two attempted burglaries, in the Portland place district. All occurred between 10 p. m. Tuesday and 7 a. m. Wednesday, and all but one were in Portland place and Waterman avenue residences.

The revised list of the night's burglarious activities shows that the residences of the following persons were visited:

Hugh L. Clark, lumberman, 29 Portland place; entered by window, $21 taken from clothing of houseman, Aloys Larre, who was asleep on third floor. Family is in Michigan.

Warner Home Robbed of $106.

George H. Warner, treasurer Cotton Belt Railroad, 6003 Clemens avenue; entered by cellar door, wardrobe on second floor opened with skeleton key, $106 taken. Miss N. B. Warner, sister of George K. Warner, his three sons, their uncle and a servant girl were in the house, but no one heard the robber.

John A. Holmes, capitalist, 9 Portland place; dining room entered and sideboard ransacked; candle grease spattered about floor and stub of a pink candle found by Mrs. M. Sahman, housekeeper. Nothing apparently taken.

Residences where entrance was attempted: The Rev. W. C. Bitting, pastor Second Baptist Church, 5109 Waterman avenue; J. B. Hollis, 5102 Waterman avenue.

The Stix family is away for the summer and three maids and a negro houseman occupy the premises. They discovered abundant evidences of the intruder's visit and showed policemen the side window where the first attempt was made, with the marks of the jimmy on the woodwork; the coal chute by which the man finally entered and the parlor window, opened from within, by which he departed.

Burned matches on the floor showed the man surveyed the contents of the parlor thoroughly before leaving. But not a thing was missing.

Frightened by Woman's Cries.

At the Johnson dwelling, the man took a lot of trouble to get in. He had to break a lock on a screen, and then jimmy open a side window. He was lighting matches in the dining room when Mrs. Johnson heard him, and called loudly for the neighbors. He immediately departed by the kitchen door, which he left open after him. Mrs. Johnson heard him go, and, hurrying downstairs, could not see that anything had been taken.

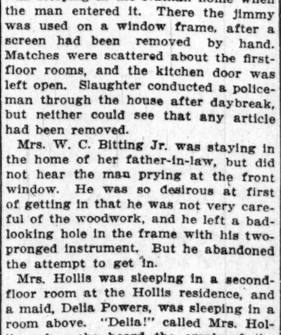

A negro houseman, Byrd Slaughter, was sleeping in the Nathan home when the man entered it. There the jimmy was used on a window frame, after a screen had been removed by hand. Matches were scattered about the first-floor rooms, and the kitchen door was left open. Slaughter conducted a policeman through the house after daybreak, but neither could see that any article had been removed.

Mrs. W. C. Bitting Jr. was staying in the home of her father-in-law, but did not hear the man prying at the front window. He was so desirous at first of getting in that he was not very careful of the woodwork, and he left a bad-looking hole in the frame with his two-pronged instrument. But he abandoned the attempt to get in.

Mrs. Hollis was sleeping in a second-floor room at the Hollis residence, and a maid, Delia Powers, was sleeping in a room above. "Delia!" called Mrs. Hollis, when she heard the creak of the busy jimmy at the front window. The noise suddenly ceased.

DENIES HOTCHNER WAS NATURALIZED WHEN DEPORTED

New York State and Alien Poor Superintendent Says Young Man Was Paralyzed.

HAD LIVED IN ST. LOUIS

Brother Had Contended That He Was a Citizen of United States When Sent Away.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Dr. Robert W. Hill, superintendent of State and alien poor, today said that Henry Hotchner, who was deported to Belgium in February, had become paralyzed and was carried to a hospital in New York on a stretcher.

"Hotchner," said Dr. Hill, "was not a naturalized citizen, but had given notice that he intended to become one. His cousin in New York said that his parents in Belgium were wealthy and abundantly able to care for him and that he ought to be sent to them. Hotchner had lived in St. Louis and had a brother there. This brother also said that he ought to be sent to his parents. He said that he himself was a poor man, with a family, and was unable to care for Henry."

"Was Hotchner allowed to telegraph his brother in St. Louis?" was asked.

"The brother was in New York at the time he was deported," said Dr. Hill. He also said that Hotchner went to Belgium willingly. "He was unable to care for himself and there was nothing else for him to do."

Brother's Contention.

Samuel Hotchner of St. Louis contended that his brother, Henry, 37 years old, and a native of Austria, was deported from New York on Feb. 21, this year, in spite of the fact that he was a naturalized citizen of this country.

The landlady of a house at 234 West Fourteenth street, from which the young man was taken to Bellevue Hospital on Feb. 20, said today:

"The young man came here two weeks before he was taken ill and hired a room of me, giving the name of Rabbit, which I understood was the equivalent of his name in Austrian. On the morning he was sent to Bellevue the porter came to me and told me that the man in room 21 was ill. I went up and saw him and sent for some coffee. He didn't get better and his left side seemed to be paralyzed. I called an ambulance and had him sent to the hospital.

"He was a well-mannered young gentleman and paid his room rent regularly. His father came here two months ago from Belgium and called for his handbag. I knew it was his father by the picture Rabbit had shown me of his father and mother. The old gentleman seemed perfectly satisfied with his son being sent to him in Belgium. His trunk had been left at the pier and only his hand bag was here. His clothing was not worth much, except what he had in his bag, and we threw it away."

Admitted to Hospital.

The record at Bellevue Hospital shows that Henry Hotchner was admitted to the hospital Feb. 20, was 29 years old, a Hebrew of Austrian birth and had been four months in the country. He was single, living at the time he entered the hospital at 234 West Fourteenth street, and gave as his nearest friend the State Board of Charities of New York. He was a salesman and was placed in Ward A-2. He was suffering with paralysis of the left side and was brought to the hospital by William M. Covel of the State Charities Department. Dr. Mallick received him and he was discharged the next day by Dr. Reade for the purpose of being deported by the State and Alien Poor Department at Albany, with a branch at 287 Fourth avenue, this city.

It was further learned that he was deported the next day by the State of New York, being sent home in the steerage of a vessel bound for Antwerp, Belgium. The council of Jewish women of New York, which had taken an interest in the case, asked the State Charities Department to let them know the day he sailed so that they could cable and he could be met by friends on the other side. The first intention had been to send him to St. Louis, it was indirectly learned last night, but relatives and friends advised sending him to his father in the old country.

His Father Wealthy.

At the local branch of the State and Alien Poor Department it was stated today that the manager being away on his vacation, any information would have to come from Dr. Robert W. Hill at Albany, who had the records in the case.

Saul Hochner, a real estate dealer, a cousin of the deported man, said that he knew little about the case and didn't want to discuss it. He said he had nothing to do with sending his cousin to Europe, but that the State Charities Department had done the right thing in doing so, as Henry's father was wealthy and the place for a single young man stricken with paralysis was his father's home. He said he did not know whether Henry was an American citizen or not, but thought that the State would not have sent him home if he had been.

WILSON THE MAN TAFT HAS TO BEAT, DECLARES HILLES

Republican Chairman Pays Slight Attention o What He Calls "Third Term Party."

THINKS TARIFF THE ISSUE

Arrives in Chicago and Launches President's Campaign in Middle West.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican National Committee, arrived in Chicago today and launches the Republican presidential campaign in the Middle West with the assertion that he considered the Democratic party the enemy to be fought and Wilson the man who would have to be defeated to assure President Taft's re-election.

Hilles made no references to Roosevelt or the Progressive party, except in terse, caustic replies to interrogations by interviewers. Then he spoke of the third party movement as the "third term" party.

The President's former secretary met the members of the Republican Executive Committee in conference and met a score of State leaders this afternoon. He said he felt more encouraged and confident of Republican success than he had at any time since President Taft's renomination.

Think Tariff Will Be Issue.

"Our friends think the tariff will be the issue in this campaign," said Hilles. "Mr. Wilson has emphasized the tariff question, and I am inclined to think that the fight for the presidency will center about that issue.

"The Chicago headquarters will have charge of the campaign work in nearly all of the country west of Indiana, excepting the Pacific Coast states, where the work will be directed from headquarters at Portland, Ore.

Questioned regarding Roosevelt's attitude on the negro question, Hilles said:

"I really don't know what Mr. Roosevelt's ideas are on that subject. I don't understand them and I think few others do. His position to me appears to be lacking in logic.

"Of the 375,000 negro voters in the North today, 200,000 were born in the South. If Mr. Roosevelt bars the Southern negro because 'the Southern negro is corrupt,' then what of the 200,000 Southern negroes now residing in the North? I can't see where he draws the line."

Niedringhaus Sees Taft Winner.

Thomas K. Niedringhaus of St. Louis, member of the Executive Committee and former champion of Roosevelt, said Taft had as good a chance to carry Missouri as any other state.

"Gov. Hadley will be right in line for President Taft throughout the campaign," said Niedringhaus. "With John C. McKinley, Republican candidate for Governor, they will make a strong team for campaign work. Unless the State Supreme Court should overthrow the primary law, the Progressives cannot place a State ticket in the field in Missouri. Democratic feeling because of the defeat of Speaker Clark at Baltimore and feeling against the Progressives because of what Roosevelt did to Gov. Hadley here at the Republican national convention will aid President Taft's cause greatly. I really look for a Republican victory in Missouri this fall."

HADLEY WILL TRY TO UNITE STATE FACTIONS

Object of Conference Is to Bring Elements Together on Regular Missouri Ticket.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 14.—A conference of Republicans will be held here tomorrow with Gov. Hadley and the latter's political friends to ascertain if there is a way by which the two elements of the party can be united on a State ticket. This meeting will be the result or numerous letters that have passed recently between the Governor and prominent Republicans, all of whom realize that unless the warring elements of the party unite the Democratic State ticket will be elected.

Among those who will attend the conference are: Homer B. Mann and E. S. Swinney of Kansas City, Election Commissioner Henry Kortjohn of St. Louis, Dr. E. B. Clements of Macon, Col. Sam Scott of Carrollton and Col. Pierce of Maryville. A letter will be submitted to the conference from John C. McKinley, the Republican nominee for Governor, in which it is said he will hold out the olive branch.

Gov. Hadley would not hazard a guess as to whether the conference would be able to bring the factions together.

COUPLE DISAGREE AS TO DAY THEY WED

Statements Also Differ Regarding Names and Ages of Children.

A divorce petition filed by Edward P. Tudor, a locomotive engineer, and a petition for separate maintenance filed by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Tudor, have shown that Mr. and Mrs. Tudor cannot agree on the date of their marriage or the ages and names of their children.

Mrs. Tudor, in her petition, says they were married Nov. 6, 1901, and that their children are: Edward Jr., 10 years old; Dorothy, 8, and Alyne, 5.

Tudor states that they were married Aug. 1, 1900, and that Edward is 11 years old, Dorothy 9 years old and Aleen, as he spells the name, 6.

Mrs. Tudor alleges that her husband kicked and choked her. Tudor charges that Mrs. Tudor attempted last Wednesday to kill him with a revolver.

Gray Hair Easily Darkened

A Simple Home-Made Remedy That Does the Work Admirably.

There is no need to use store preparations for the hair, many of which are of doubtful efficacy, when you can darken your hair with a simple mixture, put up by yourself at trifling cost, which never fails. Here is the recipe, the ingredients needed being procurable at any drug store at little cost: To 7 ounces of water add one small box of Barbo Compound, 1 ounce of bay rum and ¼ ounce of glycerine. This is a splendid preparation and is sure to please you. It not only gradually darkens the gray hair or beard but renders it soft, glossy and beautiful, is no wise suggesting the use of a coloring agent. It should be applied once a week until the hair is darkened, then every two weeks. It is also an excellent remedy for dandruff and other scalp diseases and promotes the growth of the hair. It does not color the scalp, soil the pillow slips or possess any of the faults of the ordinary hair dyes and stains you buy in the stores. If your druggist hasn't Barbo Compound, ask him to get it for you. —ADV.

RETURN OF HEAT MEANS SUFFERING FOR POOR BABIES

Most Severe Weather of Season Is Yet Likely to Come.

Hot weather, banished for a week, has returned, and more of it is on the way, and that is bad news for the babies in the crowded districts of the city, where cooling breezes have little chance to alleviate hot weather suffering.

When the sun beats down most fiercely on the habitations of the lowly the need of pure milk and free ice for the babies is greatest. It is not unlikely that the hottest weather of the summer is yet to come in the latter part of August and the early part of September. The need, therefore, is great for those who would help save the babies to redouble their efforts, to the end that the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund shall not be depleted when it is most needed.

Those who want to help save the babies can do so by sending contributions direct to the Post-Dispatch or by helping the numerous benefits that are being given, day after day, in different parts of the city. They can help by buying flowers from Mrs. Vincent J. Gorly and the other young society women assisting her at the Grimm & Gorly booth at the Coliseum.

They can help by attending the open air euchre to be given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Banks at Banks' Grove, 6671 Clayton avenue, at which fine prizes will be distributed to the winners.

They can help by patronizing the little store that Vivian Hoevel, 10 years old, a niece of A. F. Smith of 1351C Bayard avenue, and Estelle Crossen, 11 years old, daughter of Eugene Crossen of 1351A Bayard avenue, are conducting in front of their homes. They are selling toys and odds and ends that they have gathered together. They started Saturday and reported Monday that they had $2 for the fund and were going to conduct the store the rest of the week.

BECKER'S SAVINGS ON $2250 SALARY PUT AT $200,000

Actual Deposits of $38,000 Traced Through Aid of the Clearing House.

GRAFT TRAIL FOLLOWED

Evidence Offered That Lieutenant "Borrowed" Money to Pay Rosenthal Slayers.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—That Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker, whose salary is $2250 a year, deposited to his credit in five banks in nine months $38,115, and that he has other deposits which are expected to bring his total "savings" up to $200,000, was the startling revelation made today in the graft inquiry which has followed the assassination of gambler Herman Rosenthal.

Members of the Clearing House Association recommended to bankers that in the interest of checking graft, information concerning Becker's bank accounts be given to the District Attorney, and this greatly has assisted in getting at the facts.

Where Money Was Deposited.

As a result it was found that these are the deposits Becker made in 10 months in the Corn Exchange Bank, his salary being $2250 a year: November, 1911, $1500; February, 1912, $130; March, $255; April, $6000; May, $4330; June, $5500; July, $10,900; August, $1500. Total, $30,115.

There is proof that while the "graft was good" he made these deposits in four banks: April, 1912, Lincoln Trust Co., $1500; May, 1912, West Side Savings Bank, $3000; April, Empire City Savings Bank, $3000; November, 1911, to August, 1912, Corn Exchange Bank, $30,115. Total, $37,615. Besides these accounts the District Attorney has information that Becker had at least five other accounts in Manhattan alone.

Inspector With $1,000,000.

As a result of the co-operation of all the banks in the city, Attorney Whitman has been able to secure the names of four police inspectors, whose bank accounts run into several hundred thousands. One inspector is said to have accumulated $1,000,000. The indictments of these officials are not being pressed at this time, as the State's Attorney is devoting his chief attention to entrapping the murderers of Rosenthal.

The evidence regarding Becker's money was not placed before the grand jury. That body was engaged from 1 o'clock until after 6 hearing testimony bearing upon the murder of Rosenthal.

Declining to discuss the testimony, District Attorney Whitman did permit himself passing comment upon the manner in which Jack Rose spoke his part. So simply, so directly, so ingenuously did Rose tell his story that the jurors forgot they were listening to a self-confessed gambler, grafter and participant in murder and allowed themselves to thrill with sympathy at the pathetic parts.

And "Bridgie" Weber was far more communicative than before. Under the guidance of Whitman, Weber told all he knew. It was his story, backed up by ample corroboration, that showed the murderers' pay to have been supplied by Becker.

Feared to Let Schepps Pay.

Also, Weber's story clears up another point that has been in doubt. It takes away from Schepps the title of "murder paymaster" and gives it back to Rose. Schepps might have had that questionable honor had it not been for the fact that Weber was not quite sure he would not ask a commission for handling the cash. So Weber, instead of turning over the money to Schepps, as Rose suggested, kept it in his own hands until he could see Rose, to be certain that Rose would get all of it for the purpose of payment.

Weber said that when Rose called for him at his club perhaps a half hour after the murder and took him in front of the Murray Hill baths in Forty-second street, where Becker had just told Rose he would meet them, Becker owed Weber $500, the amount of a "quick touch" made a few nights before. This was Weber's own explanation, with the added remark that Becker was good for anything he wanted then.

He said that when Becker met the two, Jacob Reich, alias Jack Sullivan, was with him. "Sullivan" dropped to the rear when Becker began his conversation and remained out of earshot, so he says. Both Rose and Weber agree absolutely that Becker, after encouraging them, told Rose the men who had done the job should have $1000.

"Bridgie," he is quoted as saying, "I owe you $500. You give Jack $1000 for me for getaway money for the boys, and I'll give you the whole $1500 tomorrow. Just add it to my account. I haven't got the cash on me or I wouldn't ask you."

Becker Still Owes $1500.

In proof of this statement, Rose and Weber, who agree in every detail, say that next day Weber sent "Jack Sullivan" to Becker to ask for the $1500. Weber's personal account book shows that on July 15 Becker owed him $500. On July 16 Becker's indebtedness was $1000. Weber added: "He still owes me the money. I went after it three or four times. In fact, I thought it was because I was pressing him that he told Dougherty to have me arrested."

That Mayor Gaynor has not been invited to participate in the citizens' mass meeting at Cooper Union tonight was made known by the spokesman of the 100 signers of the call for the meeting at the same time that it was stated that District Attorney Whitman, Alderman Curran and Emery R. Buckner are to be the principal speakers in opening the citizens' campaign against graft and in favor of good government and the enforcement of the law.

The investigation which was started by the killing of Rosenthal and which has extended to every form of vice and its protection has called to mind one of the most exploited raids by Becker on a sumptuous gambling house kept by a man named Freeman. The disposition of the case is considered significant, in the light of recent disclosures.

In spite of the fact that Freeman had influential backing, Becker and his "strong arm" squad battered down the doors of Freeman's place and, gaining entrance, tore things up like a Kansas cyclone. Not a carpet was left on the floor; valuable paintings on the wall were slashed. Easily $30,000 worth of damage was done.

When friends urged Freeman to go to court and seek relief from the penalty imposed by Becker through the destruction of his property, the gambler shook his head. He knew a better way and it took the form of a check for $2500 in favor of Becker.

Freeman happened to fall between two stools. He had been carried on an inspector's list and had been let alone for years. Becker thought he had a claim upon the protection money, and when his claim wasn't met, he went out to enforce it. This check was erroneously ascribed to "Honest John" Kelly, when information first reached the authorities about its payment.

The $2500 paid to Becker by Freeman is supposed to have included the price agreed upon to have the case "fixed" when it reached the grand jury. That is what happened, and Becker surrendered three extra warrants held against Freeman and his employes. It was agreed that the payment should be enough to insure pleasant relationship between protector and protected, who agreed to pay $1500 a month thereafter.

Three days after the raid which Becker's press agent had exploited the house was open again. The uptown inspector had seen a light and the understanding was reached between him and his impetuous young rival.

The Secret of Success

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject, prominent local druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfils every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A free trial bottle will be sent by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper. Regular size bottles sold at all druggists—50c and $1.00

BABY IN GREAT MISERY WITH RASH

On Face, Spread Until Nearly All Over Body, Crust on Head, Hair Fell Out, Itch Terrible, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Monroe, Wis.—"When my baby was two weeks old there came a rash on his face which finally spread until it got nearly all over his body. It formed a crust on his head, hair fell out and the itch was terrible. When he would scratch the crust the water would ooze out in big drops. On face and body it was in a dry form and would scale off. He was in great misery and at night I would lay awake holding his hands so that he could not scratch and disfigure himself. I tried simple remedies at first, then got medicine, but it did no good. Finally a friend suggested Cuticura Remedies, and I sent for a sample to see what they would do, when to my surprise after a few applications I could see an improvement, and it would rest better. I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap and before I had them half used my baby was cured. His head is now covered with a luxuriant growth of hair and his complexion is admired by everybody and has no disfigurements. I hope other mothers will profit by my experience and not be worn out with poor babies who are tortured with skin and scalp affections." (Signed) Mrs. Annie Saunders, Sept. 29, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Sold by dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-page book on the skin and scalp. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

CHICAGO PADDLERS IN TEN-MILE SWIM

That several Chicago swimmers will compete in the Missouri Athletic Club's annual 10-mile splash in the Mississippi next Saturday is the assurance of Coach Tom Whitaker, who returned from the Windy City Sunday. Whitaker accompanied Chauncey Heath to Chicago for the I. A. C. river swim and incidentally to solicit entries for the local event.

William Vosburg, who won the I. A. C. event, told Whitaker that he would come here. He also received the entries of Merriam, Winans and Raithal, all of the Illinois Athletic Club. The M. A. C. entry includes Heath, Murphy, Nash, Roos, Kaiser, Harrington and Patrick.

AUSTRALIAN CHAMP INVADES AMERICA

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Dave Smith, the Australian middleweight champion, who has victories to his credit over Papke, Clabby, Lodge and others, is the latest pugilistic arrival in New York. He is accompanied by his manager, Richard K. Klegin, and his trainer, Johnny Hayes of Marathon fame, and declares himself ready for an active campaign in the ring.

This visit is the first that the Australian champion has made to America, but he is well known by reputation. He first sprang into prominence by beating Billy Papke in Australia when the latter was generally regarded as the middleweight champion of the world. Papke later evened matters after a hard fight.

Smith weighs close to 160 pounds. He will report in a few days for a camp outside Philadelphia, where he will begin hard training.

ENGLAND WILL AGAIN TRY FOR POLO HONORS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—It is announced that England is again planning to send a polo team to this country to challenge for the international cup. The Duke of Westminster will have general charge of the expedition, and will bear most of the financial burden. He is at present holding a series of practice games on his private polo grounds at Eaton Hall, with a view to picking a team of challengers.

WHIRLWIND WINDUP EARNS BROCK A DRAW

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 14.—A hurricane wound contest here last night between Jack Dundee of New York and Matt Brock of Cleveland was called a draw. Johnny had a shade the better of the argument, but in the last round the boys mixed matters all over the ring, with honors even, and this probably influenced the referee. He gave three rounds were even and two be-tween Dundee by a slight shade. All the fights were Dundee's on points.

Only Kirkpatrick, under the National agreement rules, will be compelled to join the Brooklyn team on Aug. 26, 20 days before the drafting season begins.

Century's Four in Poor Shape For Busch Race

Green Jerseyed Oarsmen Will Compete in River Contest Sunday With Little Practice.

The Century Boat Club's four-oared shell may not be able to furnish as keen competition as was expected in the Busch cup race because the event is to be held Sunday afternoon, a week earlier than the oarsmen believed. If the Century four competes it will do so with practically no practice.

After winning the Central States and Southwestern senior pair-oared races in Peoria with Gus Goessling, Al Bechestobill went to Detroit to spend the remainder of his vacation. He is not expected to return until the latter part of this week, which will mean that he will have little or no practice with Goessling, Sam Oesterreicher and Capt. Schlosstein, the other members of the crew.

The Mound City four, which fared the best in the Peoria regatta, will compete. The Madison street quartet won the Central States senior event and finished second to the Lincoln Park club's boat in the Southwestern regatta. In both races the Centrals followed the Mound Citys home.

The Westerns will enter two crews, while the Centrals, St. Louis and North Ends are expected to start.

Following the Busch cup race, the next event on the local rowing program is the race for the Stifel cup. This is a three-mile downstream contest for six-oared barges. It will be held Sept. 1.

FATHER M'NAMARA NEW DIRECTOR OF ST. L. U. ATHLETICS

Announcement has been made that the Rev. Father Stephen McNamara will succeed Father Padberg as faculty director of athletics at St. Louis University this fall. Father McNamara has returned from his vacation and already is preparing for the fall football practice.

Coach Dennie, the new football tactician, will reach St. Louis early in September. Dennie recently joined the ranks of the benedicts and is honeymooning in the East.

They ask for the immediate reinstatement of Evers in order that he may play in the series with New York, beginning tomorrow.

C. B. C. Coach to Report Soon.

WHO MENTIONED HAL CHASE.

HAVE you taken a slant at Ed Koney's performance this year? Critics may prefer Hal Chase, who seldom gets by with a full season's work without laying off on one excuse or another. But Ed Koney is the busy boy. He has given good measure in work ever since he joined the club, averaging but three or four days out for the season for several years. He has steadily improved in all departments of his play until now he is hitting, fielding and playing the game better than ever. Koney is hitting .340 and has made over 1000 putouts; he leads the League in assists and has made but 7 errors on the season; he has scored 68 runs and stolen 20 bases. And if there is any first baseman in the League that can beat his allround work, mention his name under your breath. He's not human.

TROUBLE FOR MR. RIVERS.

JOSE RIVERA, whose nomenclatural ears and tail have been bobbed until his fighting terrier name is Joe Rivers, is preparing to pick up a little easy change at the expense of Joseph Mandot, a Memphian of French extraction, who has shown in St. Louis and has made a reputation as one of the best lightweights in the South.

Jose is just starting training, while Mandot has been working like a demon to get back to the form which slipped from him during his campaign of several months ago.

If both go into the ring at their best, Rivers will meet a harder man than Wolgast—over the limited round route. Mandot did not show any too well here against Harry Trendall, owing to a campaign that had included engagements nearly once every week for a number of weeks. But he gave hints of what he might do at his best. He is a cool, careful fighter, a splendid boxer, and those who have seen him at work in important engagements say is "there" with the punch, too.

Rivers' best showing was against Wolgast, a fighter pure and simple without pretense to flourishes or science. Rivers will have more trouble reaching Mandot than he did Wolgast and will have a great deal more trouble avoiding him.

Thus it is no snap engagement that Rivers is playing, but a serious one, and the winner will undoubtedly battle for the title, before the year is out, against Adolph Wolgast.

HEDGES' SCOUTS FAIL TO UNCOVER BACKSTOP TALENT

Gum-Shoe Men Have Been Busy in Lining Up Young Material for Other Departments.

By CLARENCE F. LLOYD.

It cannot be said that Col. Hedges has a strangle hold on his purse strings this season, judging from the number of young ballplayers that are being signed up by his scouts. A small army is already on the roster, while others are under cover and some are still to be signed.

Much of this activity in the purchasing line is due to Manager Stovall's request for material. Soon after taking up his duties as manager of the team, Stovall realized that the other clubs were going to lend him no assistance and he determined to build up his own team.

The Browns' pitching staff is O K; in fact, one of the best in the League. The infield, with Stovall and Wallace in the lineup, will do. But the outfield and catching departments are inferior. These are the places where the strengthening will have to be done.

Backsteps Are Scarce.

Hedges' scouts haven't been so successful in their quest for backstop material. But some promising fly-chasing talent has been signed. It includes Jack Johnson, the demon slugger of the Southern League; Tony Brief, who is hitting in the neighborhood of .500 in the Michigan League, and Mr. Brown from the Wichita Falls (Oklahoma State League) team.

The Browns failed to obtain any players in exchange for Pitchers Pelty and Lake and Infielder Laporte. But good coin of the realm was turned over for these athletes and it is being invested in young blood. Mr. Hedges has turned several deals during his short career as a baseball magnate that have created for him a reputation of being a wise gink. His latest was the sale of Laporte to the Washington Nationals with Clark Griffith being the "goat."

Griff Must Be Dippy.

Griff believed Laporte would win a pennant for the Washington Climbers and was almost willing to pass over anything in the way of coin for the Ohio chicken raiser. He delivered a check for $5000 without a murmur. Considering Laporte's failure to help the Browns that $5000 looks pretty sweet.

Pitchers Brought Good Prices.

Incidentally far more than the waiver price was obtained for Pelty and Lake. So while no players came in exchange for the trio of men, enough money for the purchase of a couple of youngsters was realized.

Manager Stovall is piloting the Browns through the East minus five of his warriors. Among those left at home are Elmer and Charley Brown, Eddie Hallinan, Walter Jantzen and Jimmy Stephens. Stephens has a split finger and Jantzen hasn't fully recovered from his tonsilitis.

Manager Stovall has recalled Albert Miller, the dashing young first baseman from the Lowell (New England League) team. He's the Albright college boy sent up for trial last spring and proved a sensational fielder on the training trip. He was sent to Lowell to obtain experience. Miller hasn't done so well as a hitter, but as a fielder, he's a star. He hasn't reached his majority.

Diamond Glints

Since Frank Laporte left the Browns, Stovall's team has won three and lost one game. Since Laporte joined the Nationals, Griff's men have lost four and won one. To all intents and purposes, Laporte is a "Jinx."

The White Sox, who have been on the toboggan for the past two weeks, found the Nationals easy, 5—3, Tuesday afternoon. President Taft viewed the rout of Griff's pennant-hunters, and as a result of the defeat, the Washington entry now is only 1½ games ahead of the Athletics.

By beating the Braves, 4—2, the Cubs reduced the Giants' lead to an even six games, as McGraw's men were idle. Reulbach pitched for the Chicago disturbers and kept the Boston boys in submission, although he yielded nine hits, two of them extra base clouts.

Dode Paskert was hit in the face by a foul fly from his own bat and forced to quit Tuesday's game. Doc Miller, secured from Boston in exchange for John Titus, finished up for Dode. The Phillies' belated four-run rally in the ninth fell only one short of tieing the score.

Jerry Downs, the red-headed utility infielder of the Cubs, who is subbing for Johnny Evers while the Trojan is serving out his five-day suspension imposed by President Lynch, made one of the three errors charged against the Bruins.

By beating the Tigers, 3—2, the Yankees closed in on the Browns, who now hold seventh place by a scant margin of one game. Ty Cobb played with the Detroiters despite that stab in the back.

Eleven Pirates perished on the sacks in the game which the Corsairs won from the Superbas, 3—1. Yingling opposed Lefty Robinson, and made a wild throw to the plate that let in the winning runs.

Brooklyn has released Cy Barger, the big right-hander, to the Newark (International League) club. Owner Ebbets of the Superbas also has stock in the Newark team, and probably will get the pick of that club this fall.

Owner Comiskey of the Sox has requested the Galesburg (Central Association) club to deliver First Baseman Ens immediately to Manager Callahan. The Sox want a real first sacker for next season.

$10,000 FORFEIT MUST BE POSTED BY JACK JOHNSON

Promoters of Champion's Bout With Jeanette Will Require This Sum.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Jack Johnson-Joe Jeanette 10-round bout, which has been hanging fire for several weeks, is as good as clinched. The Post-Dispatch is in a position to make this statement on the authority of the men most directly interested in it. Unless something totally unexpected crops up today in Chicago, when the terms of the match will be arranged, Johnson will affix his signature to the agreement to box Jeanette at the St. Nicholas Athletic Club.

Jess McMahon, one of the managers of the St. Nicholas Athletic Club, will meet Johnson in the latter's cafe today to arrange the final details of the match. He will be materially assisted by Baron Wilkins, a personal friend of Johnson, who made the trip to Chicago in order to persuade Johnson o sign with McMahon. Before McMahon left for Chicago he was asked what sum he would guarantee Johnson. He refused to answer the question directly, but intimated that it would be close to the amount Johnson demands—$30,000.

$10,000 Forfeit Asked.

McMahon said: "Johnson will unquestionably agree to my offer, and when he signs I'll suggest that he post $10,000 for his appearance at the St. Nicholas Athletic Club, and in return I'll post $10,000 as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the club."

The Johnson-Jeanette match will not be the only great bout of the night decided upon for the battle. It is the intention of the McMahon brothers to make that evening a gala one—an epoch in the ring history of this city. In addition to the heavyweights the club will endeavor to stage bouts between Johnny Coulan, bantamweight champion, and Kid Williams of Baltimore; and a match between Johnny Kilbane, featherweight title holder, against Johnny Dundee.

Wallace Day Is Sept. 15 Scheme of Local Fans

Admirers of Browns' Veteran Shortstop Think Recognition Due Scot's Faithful Work.

Admirers of Roderick Wallace, since 1902 the mainstay of the Browns, will today present a request to the local American League office that a "Wallace day" be set aside next month, in which the many friends of the "Little Scot" can show their appreciation of his long service.

They point out in their petition that other noted players of the League, Lajoie, Cobb, etc., are to be recipients of the same sort of testimonial and believe one is coming to Wallace, when faithful services are being considered.

The idea is the outgrowth of the suggestion made in the Post-Dispatch Aug. 13. The idea was promptly taken up by local fans interested in Wallace's career.

Boston Club Here.

It is suggested that the date be Sept. 15, an open date, when the Boston club will be able to play here. President McAleer is a firm friend of Wallace, owing him much while the two were connected with the local club, and it is thought by the petitioners that his consent can be obtained.

Wallace is not in need of a benefit, as he is in good circumstances. Fans merely desire an occasion to show they appreciate conscientious, persevering and brilliant efforts to help out the local baseball situation.

Mr. Hedges, when asked about the matter, said he did not know what action would be possible, but that he would consider the proposition when it was actually presented.

Up to Marquard to Halt Cubs' Dash to Front

"Rube" Will Be Asked to Face Lavender in Opening Game at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The advance sale of seats has been heavy for the series of three games, the first of which will be played tomorrow between New York and Chicago, rivals for leadership in the National League.

The victorious invasion of the East by the Cubs has given renewed hope to followers of the West Side team. Twelve games behind the leaders when they left on the trip east, the Cubs will return from Boston tonight only six games behind, having won 15 out of a total of 18 games.

The New York team arrived yesterday and will have a day of rest before the opening game.

Marquard is scheduled to open the attack for New York, and Lavender probably will pitch for the Cubs.

Downs will replace Evers, who, on Monday, was suspended for five days by President Lynch of the National League.

SPORT SALAD BY L. C. DAVIS

BALL YARD RIPPLINGS.

"What's bitin' Chubby Murphy now?" said Rooter-on-Parade.

"He wants to start another row," the Center Fielder said.

"What seems to ail the peaky cuss?" said Rooter-on-Parade.

"He's pickin' up a bit of fuss," the Center Fielder said.

The pennant bee is buzzing in his bonnet, it would seem,

And he entertains a notion that they're crabbing of his team.

He simply would have busted, if he hadn't let off steam,

But he'll be apologizing, in the mornin'."

"What makes the Duke so mad, so mad?" said Rooter-on-Parade.

"The way that Chubby Murphy acts," the Center Fielder said.

"Will Roger call him to account?" said Rooter-on-Parade.

"He can't afford to notice him," the Center Fielder said.

He treated Roger Bresnahan with greatest disrespect,

Insinuating crookedness, or words to that effect:

The words he used, to say the least, were far from circumspect,

But he'll be apologizin' in the mornin'."

"Why don't they muzzle Chubby Chawles?" said Rooter-on-Parade.

"I wish they would. I wish they would," the Center Fielder said.

"How does he get away with it?" said Rooter-on-Parade.

"Well, that's what often puzzles me," the Center Fielder said.

In some respects this Murphy is a curiosity, Surcharged with the exuberance of his verbosity;

He shoots a line of verbiage of great ferocity,

But he'll be apologizin' in the mornin'."

Oh, for goodness' sake, Lynch, give the boy his pennant and stop his crying. He's making the field sloppy.

Cy Young is trying to "come back." He's going to try and sell some oil land to John D. Rockefeller. Old Cy will need all his "stuff," if he expects to put one over on old "Coal Oil Johnny."

CARDS STRIVING FOR A BERTH IN FIRST DIVISION

Players Confident of Passing Reds and Hope Also to Head Off Phillies.

By W. J. O'CONNOR

"We'll beat the Reds, sure; with any breaks we'll also head off the Phillies."

That's the consensus of opinion expressed by the Cardinal players upon their return home, Tuesday evening. The players really are shooting for fourth place, a berth they aspired to last year. The Phillies for a while threatened to move ahead of the Pirates, but since Addison Brennan, the clever southpaw went to the hospital, the Daisies of Doolin have been retrograding. Eppa Rixey also has been getting his bumps of late, leaving only Alexander, Seaton and Moore to shoulder the burden.

However Bresnahan's pitching staff is crippled by the absence of Joe Willis, the massive southpaw. Now, though, Jakie Geyer is beginning to come around; if he's able to take turns with Steele, Harmon and Sallee the club may climb up to that lofty position in the first division.

Oakes the Demon Hitter.

Oakes is hitting like a fiend and his knocks are producing runs that surely will help the Cards. Ellis is doing well after a long layoff and for the first time this season the Cardinal outfield is showing championship form. The infield is rattling along at a dizzy pace and if the gardeners can continue to supply the much-needed hits, there's no limit to what the club may accomplish during its long stay at home.

The Cards now are six games behind the Phillies and only two games back of the Reds. They open a four-game series with the Braves Thursday, winding up with a double-header Saturday. Then the Giants call Sunday for three games.

Cubs Make Great Fight.

The stubborn fight being put up by the Cubs is wonderful when one remembers that the famed Mordecai Brown has not worked for Chance in a month. Furthermore, Brown doesn't intend to work any more this season and the Cubs now will rely entirely on younger pitchers to cut down the Giants' diminishing lead.

Brown hurt his knee in a game against Boston July 15 and didn't make the Eastern trip with the Cubs. However, the rejuvenation of Eddie Reulbach, the St. Louis boy, was most opportune and the big medico really filled the vacancy caused by Brown's withdrawal.

There's a pathetic side to Brown's injury. Before the season opened Mordecai was a holdout. He was coaxed into the fold only after receiving an increase in salary. He went out to "have his last big year." Like all other holdouts, though, Brown ran into a snag, and so far he has been of little use to Chance.

Arnold Hauser now is the possessor of an automobile. That puts Pawee in the same class as Boss Bresnahan, Koney, Mowrey and Harmon, all of whom steer a benzine buggy. Evans and Sallee are prospective purchasers.

All Sores Are Not Cancerous

While all Old Sores are not cancerous in their nature, every slow healing ulcer shows a degenerated condition of the blood. Virulent impurities in the circulation produce angry, discharging ulcers, while milder and more inert germs are usually manifested in the form of indolent sores or dry, scabby places. Efforts to heal an old sore with external applications always result in failure because such treatment does not reach the blood, and the ulcer will continue to eat deeper into the surrounding flesh as long as a polluted circulation discharges its impurities into it. S. S. S. heals old sores of every nature by purifying the blood. It goes to the fountain-head of the trouble and drives out the germ-producing poisons and morbid impurities which prevent the place from healing. Then a stream of rich, nourishing blood, which S. S. S. creates, causes a perfect and natural knitting together of all flesh fibres, making a thorough and permanent cure. The sore does not "come back" when S. S. S. has made a cure, because its source has been destroyed. Book on sores and ulcers and medical advice free.

BULL MOOSE CALL FOR CONVENTION HERE IS ISSUED

Roosevelt Will Address 1024 State Delegates in St. Louis, Sept. 4.

The call for the Missouri State convention of the Progressive party to be held in St. Louis Sept. 3 was issued Wednesday from Kansas City and St. Louis. At this convention, Sept. 4, Col. Roosevelt will address the delegates and guests.

Under the apportionment of a representative for every 700 votes, St. Louis will send 201 delegates to the State convention, and St. Louis County will send 22 delegates.

There will be a total of 1024 delegates at the State convention, more than enough to sign the petitions necessary to get the Progressive State ticket on the November ballots.

The local officers of the State Committee, Paul V. Janis, vice-chairman; Spearman Lewis, secretary, and William H. Walker, National Committeeman for Missouri, took possession Wednesday of the new State headquarters at 517 Olive street, where the first and second floors will be occupied as soon as the premises have been cleaned.

DEBS CRITICIZES T. R.'S PLATFORM

All the Really Progressive Planks Taken From Socialists, He Says.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—In a signed statement published here today, Eugene V. Debs, Socialist, says of the Roosevelt Progressive party:

"The really progressive planks in the Progressive platform were taken bodily fromthe Socialist platform, and even the red flag of Socialism was appropriated, or at least imitated, by the red bandana of the Roosevelt followers.

"So far as the Progressive party itself is concerned, it contains too many diverse and conflicting economic elements, and its platform is too much of a hodge podge to give it the character and stability of a great national party.

"The most significant thing about the Roosevelt Progressive convention is that it represented hundreds of thousands of men who have voted the Republican ticket all their lives and who have now quit the Republican party forever. The progressive tendency here manifested can never be checked, but will become more and more pronounced until it finds expression in Socialism."

PRODUCE MEN LOSE IN FIGHT ON SCREENS

Judge Hitchcock Declines to Enjoin City From Enforcing Protective Ordinance.

Fruit and produce dealers who are resisting the enforcement of the screening ordinance failed Wednesday in their effort to get Judge Hitchcock to issue an injunction against city officials restraining them from enforcing it.

The Judge declined to grant the injunction, after hearing arguments by Walter H. Saunders, attorney for Conrad Schopp and other produce men, and Robert Burkham, Associate City Counselor. Saunders argued that the city ordinance conflicted with the State law, which required fruit and produce to be protected against flies and dust. The requirement that receptacles be "rightly closed," he said, was confusing. Burkham said the word "rightly" was a misprint for "tightly," and cited a Minnesota Supreme Court decision in favor of a city ordinance like the one in question.

Peaches, Peaches, Peaches.

If you really want any peaches this season now is the time to get them, as the crop will be exhausted in a few days. The Southwestern Produce Distributors, corner Fourth street and Lucas avenue, have been conducting a mammoth sale the past few days and will continue for the next three or four. Ten carloads, or 4000 bushels, were offered today, and about as many more will be in for the next three days' sales. Such an opportunity to get fine peaches at the prevailing low prices will not be offered again.

YELL STOPS A HOLDUP

Bartender Puts Up Hands, but Calls for Help.

One yell from Joseph Crowther, bartender in the saloon of Attilla Elice at 2946 Laclede avenue, sent two armed highwaymen running from the place shortly after 10 p. m. Tuesday. They did not even wait for the two beers they had ordered.

Crowther was alone in the saloon when two beardless young men entered and called for beer. As he turned to serve them the supposed customers drew revolvers and ordered him to throw up his hands. He obeyed and yelled for help at the same time.

Five Hundred to Make Trip Around the World.

Several St. Louisans are expected to join a party of 500 that will sail from New York Oct. 19 on the Hamburg-American Line steamer Cleveland for a trip around the world. Nearly every year there are some St. Louisans who take this trip, which includes sight-seeing in India, China, Japan, the Philippines and Hawaii. The party will land in San Francisco in February and on the 19th of that month the Cleveland will start on a return course with another party. The Cleveland is one of the finest ships afloat, having all up-to-date accommodations. It takes 110 days to make the whole trip, although the actual sea time is less than 30 days.

INDIAN GIRLS WIN; ANCESTORS' GRAVES LEFT UNDISTURBED

House Would Revoke Permit to Move Kansas City Cemetery Which They Guarded.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Sentiment triumphed over commercial necessity when the House Indian Affairs Committee today favorably reported a bill repealing a law that permitted the removal of an Indian burying ground in Kansas City, Mo., in which repose the bones of members of the once powerful Wyandotte tribe.

The cemetery had been used by the tribe for many years and scores of the survivors petitioned that the graves of their fathers be left undisturbed.

The bill already has passed the Senate. The ground was desired for commercial purposes.

Three Indian girls have kept up the fight to keep the graveyard unviolated. They are sisters, and the eldest, Lydia Conley, has lived for many months in a little watch tower in the cemetery, keeping guard with a rifle.

DARROW'S ATTORNEY ATTACKS PROSECUTOR

Declares McNamaras Were Guilty of "Hideous Crime," but Escaped Heavy Punishment.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14.—Characterizing the agreement in the McNamara case as a remarkable victory for Darrow and a heinous thing on the part of the District Attorney, Attorney Earl Rogers resumed his argument today in the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow.

Rogers declared that the McNamaras were guilty of a "hideous, horrible crime," yet the District Attorney had agreed not only to allow one to escape hanging and the other to take a term of 15 years in prison, but to allow Caplan and Schmidt, two of the men actually involved in the Times murder, to go free, provided they remained out of the country.

Attacking the testimony of Bert H. Franklin, Rogers asserted that if Darrow had known that Juror Bain was bribed early in October he would not have told Lincoln Steffens in the presence of E. W. Scripps that he regarded the case as hopeless.

The danger in Franklin's story, continued Rogers, was that all of it was true except small portions—that particularly where he received the bribe money and as to who authorized the corruption of jurors.

CHILDREN NEED EXTRA CARE IN HOT WEATHER

Summer Heat Dangerous to Little Ones If Bowels Are Neglected.

The mother cannot do better for her children than to train them, from infancy, to regularity of the bowels. Chronic constipation in later life can be avoided if the child is taught to dispose of the poisonous stomach waste regularly.

There will, of course, be times when the little one will become constipated and bilious. In hot weather, especially, immediate attention is necessary, as much serious illness results from inactive bowels. Salts, cathartics, purgatives, and similar drastic irritants are harsh and violent and only bring temporary relief while disturbing the whole system. A gentle, pleasant bowel stimulant like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is far preferable. Syrup Pepsin contains no narcotic drug, being composed of simple laxative herbs combined with pepsin, and acts gently, in a natural manner, on stomach, bowels and liver. By thoroughly cleansing the bowels and removing the foreign matter that irritates and inflames the tissue, it will quickly check the summer diarrhoea that is so weakening in its effect.

Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the larger size being intended for family use. A free trial bottle, postpaid, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 406 Washington st., Monticello, Illinois.

Clear Complexion

A well-known beauty, noted for her wholesome complexion, says that any woman can have a clear, transparent skin by using the original Tono-Lax Tablets. Take one every morning and you will be surprised how quickly it will transform the skin from greasy blotchiness to velvety fairness. 25c at druggists or by mail. Security Remedy Co., St. Louis, Mo.

ADLEY TELLS WHY HE WON'T QUIT REPUBLICAN PARTY

overnor, in Published Article, Explains Failure to Follow Roosevelt by Declaring Progressive Voters in Party Will Shape Its Course.

LIKE CAPTAIN, WILL STICK TO THE SHIP

Doubts if It Would Be as Easy to Keep Bad Men Out of New Party as It Would Be to Rid Old One of Them.

Gov. Herbert S. Hadley contributes to this week's number of "Leslie's Weekly" a frank statement of why he can support Theodore Roosevelt for President and why he remains in the Republican party. As Gov. Hadley was the Roosevelt floor leader in the Republican national convention, his statement is of special interest.

The Missouri Governor says the reasons urged by these who have joined the third-term party are that the Republican party is a sectional party, that it has outlived its usefulness and that it is not in accord with the progressive spirit of the day, on account of the fact that its machinery is in the control of men who are either conservative or the representatives of special interests.

Old Party Offers Easiest Way.

The only force in this argument, he declares, is that, because the organization in the South is largely made up of office holders, it is easier for the special interests to control the party. On this point the Governor says:

"The question, therefore, is as to whether the Republican party is now dominated by men who represent special interests and as to whether it is a more difficult task to free the party from their control than it is to organize a new party and through it secure control of the Government. The action of the National Committee in passing upon the contesting delegations for seats in the convention is offered as proof that the party is under the control of such men.

"Notwithstanding the record that has just been made, I have been unwilling to concede that the Republican party has ceased to be a useful agency for good government. I believe a large majority of the Republican voters believe in the progressive policies and principles of government, and that those voters can make their opinion effective through the existing party machinery. And I believe that the success of progressive principles can be more promptly and effectively accomplished through the Republican party than by the organization of a third party.

"Assuming the truth of all that has been charged against the National Committee, such an abuse of authority has occurred before, and the fact that it occurred this year does not mean that it will occur again.

The Party Has All Honest Men.

"What assurances have those who join in the formation of a new party that four years from now the members of the national committee of that party will not use, in some unfair way, their authority as against delegates selected in favor of some candidate for the presidency. No party can claim for itself a monopoly of honest men, and no party can make itself proof against dishonest or selfish or designing men securing positions of power or authority therein." Gov. Hadley says he believes it is no more difficult to drive men who would resort to unfair methods out of positions of authority in the Republican party than to keep them out of a new party. He prefers, he adds, to make the effort before abandoning a party which has such a splendid record of public service to its credit.

The Governor strongly praises that Republican platform for its progressiveness, saying:

"I have further felt that the platform adopted by the Republican convention this year shows that the Republican party as it now exists is not a reactionary organization. While there were a number of planks that I should like to have seen adopted—particularly the plank declaring in favor of direct primaries—which were not adopted, the platform, as a whole, is the most progressive ever adopted by our party."

As Captain, Sticks to Ship.

"These considerations in favor of remaining in the Republican party are personal and apply in the case of any member of the party. Speaking from a personal standpoint, I have felt that, as the head of the Republican party in the second largest Republican State in the Union and the largest Republican State west of the Mississippi, as the captain of the ship for the time being, I could not be among the first to abandon it, and that I should not abandon it at all, unless fully convinced that it is going down."

Normal Waist Line Is Coming Back

Leg-o'-Mutton Sleeve Fashion Again

Serpent Gown and Dutch Bonnet Are Novelties

Ecclesiastical Effects Are Shown in Dresses and Coats at New York Exposition.

BY MARGUERITE MOORS MARSHALL.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—These are the most important novelties in next season's wardrobe, according to the wise prophets of the Fashion Show just opened in Grand Central Palace:

1. The serpent gown.
2. The one-sided pannier.
3. The Dutch bonnet.
4. The ecclesiastical mode.
5. The leg-o'-mutton sleeve.
6. The semi-plaited skirt.
7. The shoulder cape.
8. The coat-suit of two materials.
9. The curtain drapery.
10. The normal waistline.

Of all these features the last is unquestionably the one that will make the most difference in the appearance of the average woman. For good or evil, the high-waisted empire effect has had its day. At one time the skirt of the one-piece dress began higher under the arms and the tube or knitting needle figure was the ideal. This winter our belts will be located very near the natural place for them. We may even venture to have hips.

Elbow Invisible.

On the other hand, the elbow is once more to become invisible. The old fashioned leg-o'-mutton sleeve, "out" for nobody remembers how many years, is once more "in." The shortest sleeve permissible is three-quarter length and this only on a very dressy blouse. Most of the sleeves come clear to the wrist, and some of them have the regulation full puff of the leg-o'-mutton. In others, this mode is plainly suggested by the very deep cuff, edged with lace, which runs in a frill up one side of the sleeve half way to the elbow.

But to begin at the beginning. Probably the loudest chorus of "ohs" and "ahs" at the Merchandise Buyers' Exposition and Fashion Show sounded when pretty Miss Marie Barbara undulated across her green baize platform in the "serpent" evening gown. This is a truly sinuous affair of black satin charmeuse and white lace. You begin at the top with a fold of the satin drooped gracefully over the left shoulder and affecting a mysterious disappearance just below the waist line.

One-Sided Pannier.

There are several ways of forming the one-sided pannier. One is to catch up the train in the back with a button set about halfway between the waist and the floor, making an uneven fullness over the right hip. Another way is to arrange a one-sided overskirt, its fullness caught in with the foundation skirt by a band of bead trimming just below the knee.

The Dutch bonnet, a fall model in hats, is of white straw, trimmed with bands of black velvet and completely covering the head. It has a high crown and is shaped exactly like the "mob" bonnet familiarly associated with the Dutch milkmaid.

The ecclesiastical effects are very popular in both dresses and coats. In the latter appears the broad, round collar with long stole-like ends, and the deep cuff. The ecclesiastical dress has a regular bishop's apron in front and a big buckle copied from medieval pictures.

With the semi-plaited skirt we come to a less extravagant and probably more widely accepted model. It is the answer to the protest against the "hobble," comparatively narrow—from two and one-half to two and three-quarter yards around the bottom—and is much easier to walk in than the two-yard skirt. Most frequently the plaiting begins at the knee and extends down, although some skirts will be plaited on either side or both, plaits from waist to hem. The accordion-plaited dress will have a certain popularity.

Shoulder Cape Revived.

Reminiscent of war-time days is the revived shoulder cape. Many of the long coats are finished off with a round, deep collar, which is practically a cape, but there are delightful little separate capes for evening wear of silk, chiffon and lace. Anybody with an old-fashioned lace shawl cannot put it to a better use than in the construction of one of these dainty wraps.

The most striking tailored novelty is the coat suit of two materials, a silk coat with a skirt of cloth or velvet, a velvet coat with a cloth skirt. Usually the two pieces match in color, but at least one model showed a black skirt with a black and white checked coat. The mode is more odd than attractive. It is doubtless an exaggerated development of the popular two-tone effect in coats, where the collar and cuffs are of one shade and the body of the garment of a contrasting color.

Suits for Business Wear.

Finally, the keynote in evening frocks and, indeed, all the more elaborate gowns, is the return to drapery. This is so long and voluminous that it has been styled "curtain," but it rather resembles the beautiful folds found in old Greek statuary. There are many modifications, however, including the apron panel, the simulated tunic, the concealed folds below the knee and others. Even a number of the more beautiful evening coats show this draped effect, which works out well in velvet, brocaded silk and all the soft materials.

Before describing any more novelties it will be well to state fashion's regulations for more every-day garments during the coming season. The coat suits for business wear will be made chiefly of serges, wide-wale mixtures and rough materials. The most popular colors will be king blue and taupe (a dark smoke color). The popular skirt is the semi-plaited, already described. The length of the coat will be from 32 to 36 inches. A popular model in coats is the half-Norfolk, in which the extra fullness is held in by two small belts, one on each side. In the back the coat will show a shaped effect. The sleeve will be long, with no extra fullness, the collar Robespiere or high military often trimmed with Roman embroidery in a contrasting shade. The coat will be cut away in front, fastening diagonally over the torso.

Trains Are Rather Short.

The most popular separate coat is the Mackinaw. This is 45 inches in length, and developed in boucle, plaid, block cloth and a number of thick, heavy, weaves. Many of these materials are striped, to insure the two-tone effect, while other coats are made of two-faced cloth, the color of the inside contrasting with the outside.

There will be exactly two kinds of shirt waists in really good style, the most severely tailored effect and the elaborate dress waist in charmeuse satin or all-over lace. The latter shows the frilled sleeve and the lace jabot arranged in wing effect. The so-called lingerie shirt waist for everyday wear will not be good form any more. Its place will be taken by tailored Scotch flannel, an excellent innovation for cold weather. Both waists and one-piece dresses will button down the front—another bit of welcome news.

For the wraps, ochre and peach are the fashionable colors. Many dinner and reception frocks will be developed in corn color. The newest trimmings are soft silk embroidery and artificial flowers of silk or satin, which will be used lavishly on both skirt and bodice. The soft fabrics, such as self-colored all silk brocades, silk voiles and charmeuse, will be chiefly worn, and there is a whisper that the bodices will be cut some higher, influenced by the return of the high collar in other costumes. Trains are rather short.

Evening Wear Novelty.

A novelty in evening garments is the coat with a pocket at the bottom for the train of its wearer. It has a special box plait in the back, caught up at one side by large buttons to give room for the skirt underneath. Another new feature is a separate scarf attached to the high collar at one end, which affords extra protection against the cold. The sleeves of this up-to-date garment are leg-o'mutton.

One last word for the new dress accessories. There is a dainty gold anklet, to be worn in the place you imagine—the last whim from Paris. There are sandal strap slippers, white ribbon criss-crossed on a black silk background. A breakfast cap copied from a baby's bonnet, an apron boudoir cap, a rainproof veil, a bolster muff and three-cornered stole, and a silk-and-fur muff with reticule to match are charming novelties. Finally, there are the Pocahontas pajamas, fringed and wampum embroidered—and good night!

MAN WHO OWNED GLOVES WORN BY SHAKSPEARE, DEAD

Dr. H. H. Furness, Noted Scholar, Had Greatest Collection of Relics of Bard.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Dr. Horace Howard Furness, a noted Shakspearean scholar, is dead at his home in Wallingford, near here. He was 79 years of age.

Dr. Furness leaves behind him the most valuable collection of Shakspeare relics ever assembled by an individual. One wing of his great mansion at Wallingford is given up entirely to the relics, works and memorials of Shakspeare. Here are found case after case containing all that has been written about the great poet, together with priceless editions of his works. The collections of relics include not only souvenirs of Shakspeare himself, but relics of all the actors and actresses who have essayed Shakspearean roles.

One notable exhibit, for example, is a pair of gloves traced authentically to Shakspeare's possession. They were once owned by David Garrick and afterward by Mrs. Siddons and Mrs. Kemble. Other relics in the house are the Shakspeare mask, an old payroll of David Garrick, and the skull over which Kean, MacReady, Forrest and Booth successively exclaimed "Alas! Poor Yorick."

The famous scholar was taken ill with a hacking cough Monday morning. Owing to his age his family insisted that he go to bed. He expired at 6 o'clock last night, while he was sleeping. The members of his family had been unable to bring themselves to believe he was dangerously ill.

Bouquets for the Sick.

The flower mission workers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet Thursday morning at 3820 Virginia avenue to pick flowers and make bouquets to distribute among the sick at the different hospitals.

WATCH INSIDE OF COW

Veterinarian Settles Dispute by Claiming Find for State.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 14.—To whom does a watch belong when it is found in the stomach of a dead cow? That was the question Dr. J. W. Funk of this city, a State veterinarian, was called upon to settle.

Dr. Funk recently was called upon to destroy a tuberculous cow which belonged to Frank Mackie. When the animal was cut open a gold watch was found in her stomach. Mackie had bought the cow from William Kreeper, a boarding house keeper. Kreeper asserted the watch belonged to a boarder on his place and demanded it for the owner. Mackie held that when he bought the cow he bought the watch. Dr. Funk made a Solomon-like judgment.

"The State must pay for a destroyed cow," he said, "therefore the State owns the carcass; ergo, the State owns the watch."

PERSIAN CAT IS BACK

Forwarded to Owner After Leaving Train at Wrong Station.

Alex M. Lewis' cat came back Wednesday. It came in a crate from Decatur, Ill., where the Wabash ticket agent had found the handsome Persian tabby wandering about the station. The ticket agent would have been glad to add the cat to the effects of the station, or to take it home, but a telegram from Lewis, who is chief deputy clerk of the St. Louis Circuit Court, caused him to crate up the pretty creature and send it to St. Louis. The cat is now at the Lewis home, 5466 Clemens avenue.

The Lewis family took the cat to Newaygo Lake, Mich., with them on their vacation trip. On the return journey Monday, the cat mistook the station at Decatur for the end of the journey and jumped out. Lewis wired back, asking that the cat be found and forwarded.

2503 SOCIALISTS VOTED

The completion of the official count of the vote in the city primaries of Aug. 6 has shown that a Socialist vote of 2503 was cast. This figure was reached by Ernest T. Behrens, candidate for the nomination for Secretary of State. Socialist party leaders say this does not show the party's strength in the coming campaign, as there was no contest for any nomination. There were contests in some wards for membership in the Socialist City Committee.

At the special election of Nov. 16 last for a vacancy in the Council, the Socialist candidate, William M. Brandt, polled 16,006 votes, running next to the Republican nominee, W. E. Caulfield.

The Prohibition vote at the primaries was 21, and the Socialist Labor vote 111. There was no contest for any nomination in these parties.

THE UNSEATING OF CATLIN.

The unseating by the House of Representatives of Theron Catlin of the Eleventh Missouri District has features of unusual importance as bearing on the strictest construction of corrupt-practices legislation.

Catlin's election was not procured by fraud, and his personal campaign expenses appear to have been within the limit prescribed by the Missouri statute. Yet the intent of the law was clearly violated by the lavish use of money in his interest by members of his family, and it is on the presumption that he must have been cognizant of the conditions that he is deprived of his seat.

There is a reflection of party politics in the vote by which the action was taken. But the case none the less exhibits a nicer recognition of the spirit of the laws against political corruption which makes it a most valuable precedent.

The story of the foiled plot to abduct the Russian imperial family and force the Czar to abdi- [illegible] though the imperial detectives had [illegible] publicity promoter.

CHEER UP.

[illegible]ere all is despair, as it is with regard to the [illegible]e bridge, there is nothing like a bit of cheer. What happened yesterday ought to make everybody feel better. It was reported on Monday that a temporary walk for pedestrians had been rigged up on the free bridge, and that anyone applying to the President of the Board of Public Improvements could get a permit to cross. Yesterday fully 200 people applied for that permit. They were willing to climb a ladder at this end, as it was said they would have to, and descend another on the other side. They wanted to cross.

It was necessary for Mr. Reber to explain that no such walk for pedestrians had been arranged, and that the report as to permits was a mistake; but that does not rob the incident of its cheerful significance. Two hundred people wanted to cross. Probably less than half of them applied for a permit because they wanted to get on the other side. They simply wanted to experience the sensation of crossing the river at St. Louis on a free bridge. Had the report been true, the bridge would by this time no doubt be crowded with people walking back and forth in the civic happiness of being finally free.

Who had suspected any such eagerness? Cheer up!

Congress threatens to adjourn this week, and most people will regard the threat with equanimity.

POPULISTS' STEAM ROLLER.

The advantages of St. Louis as the meeting place of the great national political conventions were presented successively to the responsible managers of the Republican party, of the Democratic party and of the Bull Moose party. In view of the insensibility of these powerful political organizations to the presentation of these advantages in great detail, it is a pleasure to record the very genuine appreciation of St. Louis hospitality shown by the National Populist party.

As host to the organization, St. Louis finds its only cause for regret in the fact that the total attendance on this national convention, estimated at from one dozen to one score, hardly furnishes a crew sufficient for the proper manning of the steam roller. It is now some time since St. Louis has had a chance to see the workings of an efficiently operated national steam roller at close range.

Policeman Cuddihee is, and was, the kind of policeman that we, in common with all appreciative civic spirits, delight to honor. We commend the Police Relief Association for its sensible action with respect to his family. In the performance of his duty Mr. Cuddihee was thrown down stairs once, fell down stairs twice, fell off a second-story porch once and once off a roof, fell from the top of a fence once, was thrown once against a wall, and twice against telegraph poles, and was three times beaten into unconsciousness—all in the pursuit of criminals. If there were such things as municipal pensions for tried veterans, the family of this faithful but unfortunate officer would deserve a handsome one.

THE MARTYRDOM OF TAFT.

If there be any virtue, if there be any heroism in standing pat, then Mr. Taft assumes it in his unctuous declaration that his record in office has been a good one and he proposes to stand on it.

But to most people Mr. Taft will seem to be making a virtue of necessity. If by any possibility he could get away from the striking series of blunders of omission and commission that make up his record or by any possibility could escape their political consequences, there would be some heroism in standing by the record—or falling by it.

Mr. Taft's predicament is inevitable. He is compelled to stand on his record by the same inexorable logic that forced his party to renominate him. To have done otherwise would have been to confess its unworthiness and plead guilty to the record as charged. To save its face it preferred to go to trial, though certain of what the verdict and the fate must be.

The Chicago convention consciously faced and deliberately accepted ruin with Mr. Taft. From the first, his defeat has been by many stanch regulars quietly conceded as a foregone conclusion. No loud or serious claims that he can be elected have since been put forth. Within the past week a semi-official forecast has been made public by one of the foremost of Taft's stalwarts and campaigners, Representative Rodenberg, claiming for his chief but 216 votes in the electoral college, far less than he needs to win.

From the beginning he has stood pat in an attitude ranging from apology to defiance, forced to wage a defensive campaign for the tottering structure of Privilege which he had served as faithfully as he had served it clumsily, crudely, and to disadvantage and disfavor with the people, to whose interests he made not a show or pretense of concession.

And at last, so the signs of the times indicate, he will go down under the debris an inglorious, involuntary martyr to his own as well as his party's misdeeds and omissions. The Republican temple will fall, not by the blind rage of a powerful Samson, but by the pathetic vacillations and blunders of a well-meaning weakling.

The answer of the country to President Taft's veto of the wool bill may be found in the two-thirds vote of the people's representatives overriding that veto. It is now in order for the Senate to repeat the performance, which it can do with the change of three or four votes. The President has ridden zealously for such a fall, and he ought to get it.

KNOX AS OFFICIAL MOURNER.

Some time ago the good Japanese Emperor Mutsuhito died, and some time hence they are going to give him a decent burial. In fact, the funeral to be held in his honor will be first-class in every particular, even to the attendance, which will include representatives from some of the most respectable nations, not omitting our own.

We are proud to send on this occasion the one official of our Government who best becomes a function of pomp and ceremony. Philander C Knox is at once our most grave and our most ornamental mourner, and he carries more trappings of real state than America ever dreamed she possessed until he came along and showed her.

Philander's official style will make the Indian Prince and the Persian Satrap look for seats in the back part of the hall.

The antispooning crusade, which originated in St. Louis, spread to Minneapolis and now has jumped across to Washington, D. C., where the order has gone forth to "stop hugging, kissing and flirting on the approaches to the Capitol." The American people seem to be a very affectionate people, and Miss Columbia seems to be a prude.

TWELFTH STREET HARVEST FESTIVAL.

The Public Recreation Commission's plan for a Harvest Festival on the Twelfth street plaza, on Wednesday afternoon of fair week, has the merit of novelty. The floats and groups of children representing staple harvest products, and the folk dances and choruses, giving the various societies of foreign-born persons an opportunity to show St. Louis their national dances in costume, would be in the highest degree attractive. A festival of this kind, in the heart of the city, would brighten up our downtown district with a touch of the picturesque and a hint of country atmosphere that would bring cheer to thousands. It should draw a multitude and delight citizens and visitors.

Why should not St. Louis have its annual Harvest Festival? The city depends not only for its prosperity, but for its existence, upon the bountiful harvests in its vast territory. Its merchants can show their appreciation of this fact and add a highly interesting attraction to the Fall Festival Week by heartily supporting the Twelfth Street Harvest Festival plan.

Contact with the business end of a modest but actively conducted Armageddon would do Mexico a world of good just now; also one or two other Latin-American countries.

FRANKLIN AVENUE'S MORAINE.

An admirable example of solicitude for the common welfare was given by a 13-year-old boy who wrote to the Post-Dispatch the other day about a big pile of building stone which has remained on Franklin avenue, near Twenty-first street, for nearly a year. He asked how St. Louis is to be made a beautiful city in the face of an official inertia permitting this heap of rocks, 150 feet long, 12 feet high and 10 feet wide, to continue for so long a time an offense to the eye. He added:

> A driver of a wagon is always in danger of getting killed by a street car on account of these rocks; a passerby may fall into the grave on account of the darkness caused by them; an innocent citizen may be held up there, as this would make a good place for highwaymen.

Dr. T. M. Sayman, who stored the stones there until he can begin the construction of a fine new building, replies to the esthetic argument by affirming that the stone pile was highly picturesque last winter when covered with snow. He says the only complaints come from persons who have never formed any large plans, as he has, for the improvement of the block in a business way.

The doctor is entitled to sympathetic consideration because of unexpected delays. At the same time, it must be admitted that the 13-year-old boy has the better of the argument. The first anniversary of this use of the street for storage purposes should see either the transfer of the artificial moraine to another place or the beginning of the construction operations which will be a certain promise of its removal at an early date. We can forego during the winter of 1912-13 its picturesqueness.

When adult citizens and especially officials show the same civic concern as this 13-year-old lad, St. Louis' provision for features of attractiveness and precautions for the safety of its inhabitants will be on a very substantial basis—as substantial, in fact, as the foundation Dr. Sayman designs for his new building.

Congressman Rodenberg, the great Taft campaigner, concedes Missouri to Wilson. Let us hope on this account that Missouri will not be burdened with superfluous Rodenberg speeches.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Why Do They Jerk?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What makes the street cars all over the city jerk so, lately? VICTIM.

A Plea for a Prisoner's Sick Wife.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read with interest, each evening, letters from the people, in your paper and have taken particular interest in a fellow workman who was arrested and sentenced to two years in prison, while his two companions got six months on the same charge he was convicted on. Now, gentle readers, is there not some one in all this great and wealthy city, that can come to his rescue, and have his sentence reduced the same as his two companions? This young man is married and was out of work and he told me that hunger and the need of money forced him into doing what he did. He said he could not sit and think of his wife in want of food to stop the pangs of hunger. Think how you would feel if your family were starving? I don't make this appeal for him, but for his wife, who will suffer much more than him. His wife is only a girl of 16 years. She is sick in bed and has no mother to look after her.

I hope that someone will go to her husband at the city jail and let him tell his story of this case. His name is Edwin Burkhardt, Cell 13. I am an employe of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe factory. A. A. T.

Wants a Jim Crow Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If "Jim Crow law" means having a separate street car for colored people, by all means give us the Jim Crow law. I have wondered why the new "freak trailer" going up and down Olive street was not made to accommodate colored people and smokers, as it could be divided. This would fill a long-felt want in our beautiful city. MRS. W. A. R.

Some Objectionable White Passengers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If permitted, I should like to say in reply to the letter from "Objectionable," regarding the enactment of a "Jim Crow" law here, that if he or she should ride often enough on the Wellston line or the Broadway line, or even the Market or Laclede lines, he would see as great a necessity for providing separate apartments for some of his own race as for negroes. I have been a citizen of St. Louis for 28 years and have always used the street cars for conveyance, and it has always been my experience to ride more often with drunken, filthy white than negro men; to ride more often with a crowd of rowdy white men and giddy, giggling, loud white misses than colored; to call the attention (a number of times) of the conductor, to some decent looking white man's making a cuspidor of the car floor where his own women, as well as negro women are obliged to sit, and I am sure that if many such persons as "Objectionable" would confess, they have had similar experiences. Since this is true, what is the paramount objection to riding with the negro? Would like to hear from "Objectionable." X. Y. Z.

A Jim Crow Advocate.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having noticed in the letters to the people the communication with reference to the mixing of the colored population on the street cars with the whites, I heartily agree with "Objectionable," in this matter, as it is certainly one of the greatest problems confronting the white portion of the St Louis public. Under the present system a man cannot go out for a car ride with his wife evenings and hope to find seats together even though there may be plenty of room, for the reason that if there be 30 blacks on the car each will make a special effort to occupy a seat alone. J. W. F.

A Champion of Black Passengers

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"Ojectionable" wants Jim Crow street cars in St. Louis. What's the object? On several occasions I have seen colored men offer their seats to women and elderly men when white men saw the need and remained seated. They do not stare young ladies out of countenance or otherwise make themselves objectionable. As to the close mixings she objects to—that was never considered a nuisance when it came to exchanging African freedom for Southern cotton fields or when it was a question of racial purity or when one employs colored help "because they're cheap."

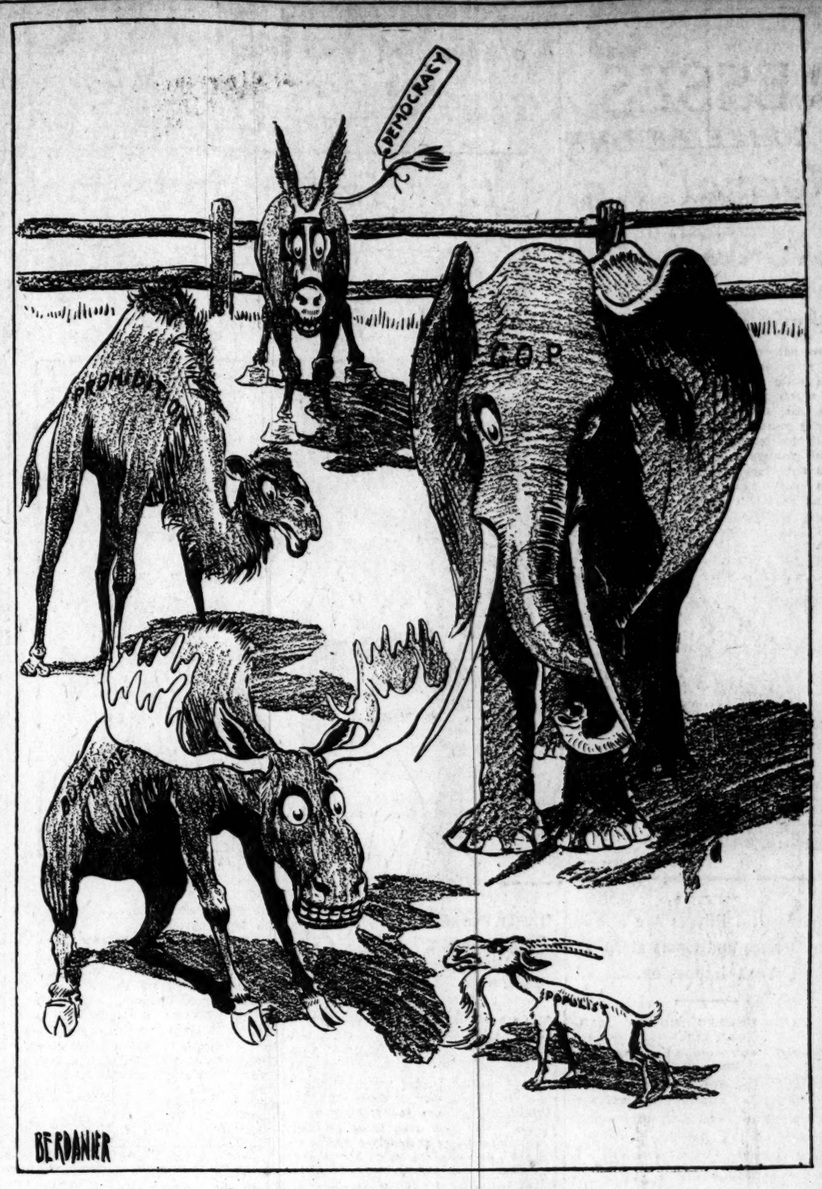

St. Louis is not New Orleans. We don't look to the South for progress nor fair play. While the installing of such cars is everywhere to be deplored there is somewhat more excuse for it in the South than with us, considering the greater prejudice and the numerical difference between the races. As a sop to illogical and unkind public opinion it is possible to tolerate it so as not to jeopardize the greater issues that are being worked out, but it is only an absurd and shameful makeshift that no progressive community finds necessary to adopt. To rob any individual or sex or race of their self-respect, to keep them undeveloped and irresponsible is to do them the greatest wrong that it is possible to do. If Christ came to St. Louis and refused to ride in a Jim Crow car we'd think him rather narrow-minded and "uppish." If on the other hand he should ride in one—well, it wouldn't hurt us to do the same. L. M. CLARKE.

Those Rocks at 21st and Franklin.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The report of rocks on our public streets at Twenty-first street and Franklin avenue is of vital interest to our people. A real danger does exist. Only recently a young lady was injured while passing this awful obstruction. The youth who exposed this condition deserves praise, and has the good wishes of all business men on the other side of the street. Our question is: Does Dr. Sayman or the city of St. Louis own this street? Why not enforce the city ordinance? Who is to blame?

PINHEAD POLITICS.

From the New York World.

Gov. Wilson is already suffering the petty degradations that busybodies inflict on a presidential candidate. His wife is obliged to deny that she favors cigarette smoking by women. If she had not thought it proper to deny this for her own sake, the Governor's managers would probably have had to deny it for her, in order to save the Anti-Woman's Cigarette Smoking vote of the United States. As it is, there are grave fears that the denial has alienated the cigarette suffragette vote.

Wilson managers are preparing briefs to demonstrate that he has never persecuted Roman Catholics, and other briefs to demonstrate that he does not favor them above all other men. They will have to furnish documentary evidence that he never believed any immigrant from Southeastern Europe to be base or mean, or smash goes the entire Italian-Hungarian - Polish - Servian- Bulgarian-Montenegrin vote. But Eureka! In escaping this danger he will not have to sacrifice the Chinese laundrymen's vote, for they have no vote.

Stump-speakers will lay stress on the fact that the Governor has a colored butler and therefore is deserving of the whole negro vote. Princeton men will be exhorted to vote for him for the sake of old Nassau. Secret fraternity men will be organized to vote implacably against him because he was rude to them in Princeton. The Scotch-Virginian vote is enlisted for him because his ancesters came from Scotland and he was born in Virginia.

And so it goes, until at times it looks as if the only vote in the country which did not matter was the American vote. But in reality all this catering by politicians to narrow cliques will not make a ripple on the result.

The American people have developed beyond the influence of such parochial politics. They elect or defeat Presidents these days on principle, not on private prejudices.

COOL AT PANAMA.

From the Springfield Republican.

Panama is so much cooler than New York State has been for the last few weeks that Joseph B. Bishop, secretary of the Isthmian Canal Commission, who fled to New York six weeks ago to escape the heat of the tropics, shipped for the canal zone, unable to stand the humidity and higher temperature. Mr. Bishop sought refuge in the Adirondacks, but the heat pursued him there and he suffered more than he had in Panama.

At the Musicale.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"How did you like Miss Kazozzle's aria at the musicale last night?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle.

"I didn't notice it," replied Mrs. Gottalotte, "but I thought them back earrings she had on looked kind of cheap."

SOCRATES ON THE WEATHER.

Socrates:

Glaucon: Don't you think it is very unusual?

Socrates:

Thrasymachus: Have you ever known it to be so cold in August as it was last week?

Socrates:

Polemarchus: Did you see they had snow some place in Michigan?

Socrates:

Glaucon: Do you believe, as so many do, that a cold August means a late Fall?

Socrates:

Thrasymachus: I was reading the other day about 1816, which was called the year without a Summer. Do you remember it, Socrates?

Socrates:

Polemarchus: That was the year, was it not, when there was frost all Summer?

Socrates:

Glaucon: There was a fine breeze at my house last night. Did you have it, Socrates?

Socrates:

Thrasymachus: Do you ever read Hicks?

Socrates:

Glaucon: Wasn't yesterday hot?

Socrates:

Thrasymachus: I didn't think so. Did you, Socrates?

Socrates:

Polemarchus: Will you go away if it keeps up like this?

Socrates:

Glaucon: Good! Now let us all get a hatful of stones and have a single tax riot.

THE ANTI-FAT MOVEMENT.

The anti-fat movement in politics has by this time become so general that we may accept it as one of the political phenomena of our time. Its application to individuals, as in the case of Mr. Taft, is only incidental. In its larger objective it pertains to all things fat and swollen, whether corporate or corporeal.

All fat is sloth, either physical or political. Therefore the more civilized nations, weary of waddling, politically bant. It is, of course, a hardship, as all banting is. A great many perspire. More protest. A great many wail. But they all bant. England is doing it. We are doing it. We are taking off tons.

Bound to Write Something.

I do not see what you correspondents find to write on. I might study for hours at a time and could not find anything to write on. I do believe Tillman County does the least visiting of any place I ever saw, or, at least, it is that way here where I live. So I will tell you a good way to dry pumpkins. Just peel the rind off, cut your pumpkin in round rings and put them on a stick, hang in the shade to dry. This makes a very nice dish to cook with vegetables.—Tillman County Letter in Tipton (Ok.) HEALTH HINTS.

FAY.—Pure peroxide, applied to the hair roots only, to make [illegible] blond. But "whenever you have a bleach on your hair you have your peace of mind."

E. M.—For shiny nose, "when powder does no good," make a lotion of one ounce distilled water, eight drams distilled tincture of lavender, 15 grains sulphate of zinc. This should be well mixed and applied about [illegible] times a day, never allowing it to remain on over night. Put it on with a piece of soft muslin.

GRAY HAIR.—To stimulate the hair and restore color: Two ounces green tea and two ounces [illegible] sage, the last crop. Put in an earthen pot, pour over the herbs three pints boiling water, perfectly soft, cover closely and let simmer till reduced one-third. Take off fire and let stand in pot 24 hours. Strain and bathe the hair with the lotion every night and massage scalp morning and evening. If you retire before your hair is dry, protect pillow with towel.

CLEANSING.

MARIE.—Mildew, as a rule, is hard to remove, but an application of lemon and borax spread on thickly and placed in the sun, will cause the spots to disappear.

F. W. B.—To set color, lay the articles of clothing in salt water enough to cover them; leave for six hours. While ink stains are fresh, soak in fresh milk. If dried, use salts of lemon, first wetting the spot, then rubbing the salts on and rinsing well with cold water. Repeat if necessary.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

ANXIOUS.—New iron skillet or kettle: Fill with potato peelings and cover with water and boiled about an hour. Then empty it, wash with hot water, dry well and rub inside with lard. It will be as satisfactory as the old one with no danger of its rusting.

BRIDE.—Sweet pickled peaches: Eight pounds peeled peaches, seven pounds granulated sugar, three pints of vinegar, a handful each of whole cloves and stick cinnamon. Put the peaches in stone jar and boil the vinegar, sugar and spices together. Pour it boiling hot over the peaches for three mornings and they are ready for use.

CUCUMBERS. — Seed cucumber pickles: Take large, yellow cucumbers, pare them, take out seeds, and cut into pieces about three inches long. Boil seven pounds of them in water till tender, till they can be pierced easily with a fork and not break them; take out of water and pack in a jar. Put 1 ounce whole cloves, 1 ounce stick cinnamon in bag and tie up, put this and 4 pounds of sugar in one quart vinegar. Boil together, then pour boiling hot over cucumbers. (Small thimbleful of powdered alum to 100 pickles is sufficient to prevent softening.)

J. L.—Mustard pickles: Equal quantities of small cucumbers, [illegible] larger ones, green tomatoes, cauliflower picked up, and small onion onions. Keep all covered in brine 24 hours. In morning drain brine and pour over pickles; let stand cold, drain and prepare as much vinegar as brine. To each quart of vinegar use one cup brown sugar, half cup flour, one-fourth pound of ground mustard. Boil the vinegar and sugar, mix the flour and mustard dry and stir boiling vinegar into it and boil till smooth pour over the pickles. If turmeric vinegar is stirred in a little at a time it will be easier to keep it smooth. (Piece of horseradish in jar of pickles will keep vinegar from losing strength and pickles will keep much longer. A little powdered alum makes pickles firm. Small thimbleful is sufficient for 100. Somebody says: The secret of making pickles firm is to scald the first water you put on to freshen them boiling hot. When soaking change the water, using cold after the first time.)

LAW POINTS.

SUSPENSE.—Children of age are not of age can claim no part of [illegible] estate jointly deeded.

READER (Ill.)—Your husband cannot sell land without your signature, nor can you sell it without his.

JOHN.—As the head of a family $300 in household goods or in money or any property that you choose is your own, is exempt from seizure for debt.

MRS. W.—Have a talk with the Prosecuting Attorney, Municipal Courts, 13th and Market, about the girl who will not take care of her baby.

MISCELLANEOUS.

C.—Interstate Commerce Commission publishes the rules and regulations governing the business of railroad. Write the commission.

HOME STUDENT.—Any ordinary business transaction can be figured in arithmetic without a knowledge of algebra or geometry. Indeed, in commercial problems, it is hard to imagine how they could be used at all to advantage. Algebra and geometry are required only in certain professions such as surveying, engineering, navigation and astronomy. A student has thoroughly mastered arithmetic algebra can be learned in a few months. Geometry is somewhat more difficult.

A. B.—For fleas: Strew green pennyroyal by the bushel all over the building. Then shut windows and doors and leave the premises for two days to the herbs and fleas. When you return gather up the withered sprigs and burn them at once. Sweep the building and burn the sweepings. Put in a house, lay sticky flypaper under beds, bureaus and tables over night to catch stragglers. Wash the inside of closets and wardrobes with a decoction of pennyroyal, or with the water to which you have added oil of pennyroyal.

SUFFRAGETTE. — Political committeemen serve without salary. It is their duty, under the law, to maintain a party organization and work for the interests of their party. There is no law against candidates paying committeemen for their support. But it is frequently done, the amount varying according to the wealth of the candidate. Your question as to whether the voters would get better representation if saloon keepers were disfranchised and committees abolished calls for prophecy. Roosevelt was one of the first to wrestle with the trust problem, the Panama canal was started in his administration, and the people voted for Roosevelt for President only once. Wilson is Governor of New Jersey. Many of the trusts were incorporated in New Jersey, under its laws, before Wilson became Governor.

D. C. E. AND M. J. M.—Roosevelt on his return to the United States after a strenuous primary campaign in New Jersey, said, when asked how he felt: "I feel like a bull moose." Hence the name "Bull Moose Party." Roosevelt says of the B. M. party: "The bull moose lives on the public domain and is a very wasteful feeder. He is of a wandering and flighty disposition. His flesh, moreover, is coarse and stringy; his hide is tough and of very poor quality. The bull moose never steals; he simply takes what he wants. He has fed on public property so long that he considers it all rightfully his. The legs of the bull moose are so long and his body so short that he must go down on his knees to crop the tender herbage, or to get a mouthful of water to quench his thirst. His frequently shows a clumsy slowness of apprehension which amounts to downright stupidity.' Another noticeable characteristic of the bull moose is his subordinate and unchangeable gentleness. Whether roaming the woods in solitude, or tearing up the earth and coming headlong to the call of his thinking, first, last and all the time of the safety of his own skin and the fullness of his own stomach. Further indications of the wide essential selfishness are found in his frequent abuse and browbeating of all other moose that are smaller than himself. He cannot tolerate a rival, but flies into a jealous rage at the first suggestion that [illegible] any other bull moose in the world."

YOU MAY HAVE TEN DRESSES FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

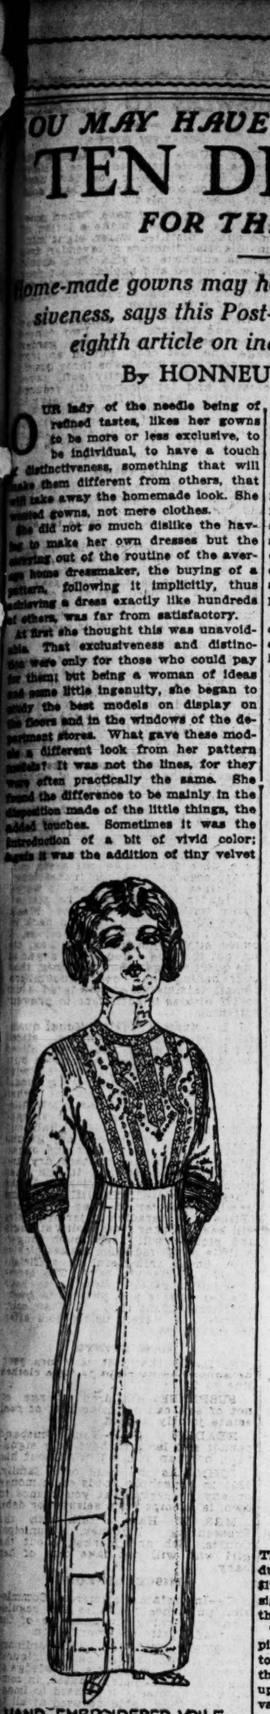

Home-made gowns may have distinction and exclusiveness, says this Post-Dispatch expert in her eighth article on inexpensive dressing.

By HONNEUR TRABUE.

OUR lady of the needle being of refined tastes, likes her gowns to be more or less exclusive, to be individual, to have a touch of distinctiveness, something that will make them different from others, that will take away the homemade look. She wanted gowns, not mere clothes.

She did not so much dislike the having to make her own dresses but the entering out of the routine of the average home dressmaker, the buying of a pattern, following it implicitly, thus achieving a dress exactly like hundreds of others, was far from satisfactory.

At first she thought this was unavoidable. That exclusiveness and distinction were only for those who could pay for them; but being a woman of ideas and some little ingenuity, she began to study the best models on display on the floors and in the windows of the department stores. What gave these models a different look from her pattern models? It was not the lines, for they were often practically the same. She found the difference to be mainly in the disposition made of the little things, the added touches. Sometimes it was the introduction of a bit of vivid color; again it was the addition of tiny velvet bias, or a short length of braid; perhaps it was the manner of applying the buttons or even the buttons themselves; again it was a little handwork, a touch of embroidery or braiding.

She decided she would try adding one of these distinctive touches to her own work. She had noticed that a novel effect was sometimes achieved in the best models by the application of separate lace motifs. She would make a departure from the cut-and-dried wide and narrow lace bands in the making of her white voile.

The white voile when finished was quite a satisfactory result, to herself, at least. It was certainly different from the ordinary homemade dress. She had made the skirt with the lower edge, to which she had applied a band of wide ratine lace, straight. The fullness at the waist had been laid in fine tucks and darts taken where necessary to make it fit smoothly, these darts being placed under a tuck to make them invisible and so not spoil the effect. The waist was cut by a simple pattern with the new large armhole, the distinctive touch being given by the trimming. Instead of using a narrow band of lace to match the wide band on the shirt, she had cut out the large motifs of the wide lace band and appliqued them in girdle fashion to the waist connecting these motifs under the arms with the narrow band of motifs remaining after cutting the wide band.

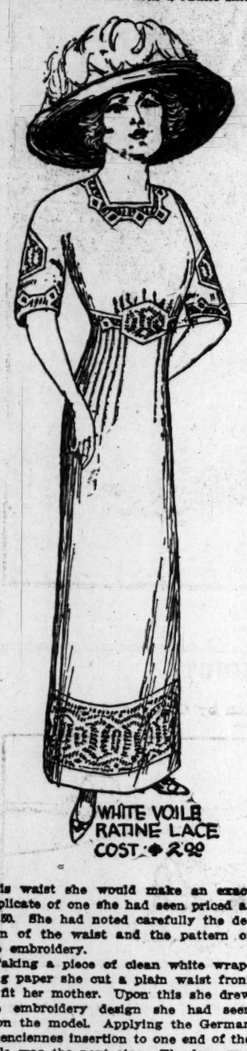

The large motifs of lace were used to decorate the sleeves, while the neck was outlined with the narrow bands. The skirt was attached to the lower edge of the lace girdle in one-piece fashion.

Counting up the cost of this pretty dress, she found the sum total quite as satisfactory as the dress itself. It had taken but two and one-half yards of voile bought on sale at 20 cents a yard and a little less than three yards of lace had been used, making entire cost of dress something less than $2.

A model, similar to this dress, the lace in fact, being the same pattern, she had seen bearing the legend: "Reduced to $19.75." She thought it safe to assume the original price had been $20. Her own dress she decided was just as pretty, just the same quality and had cost one-tenth that sum.

She liked hat and shoes and gloves to match or harmonize with each dress, so she took the wide brim of a white chip hat, making a round crown of wire, covering it first with a piece of the voile and then with the piece of lace left from the three yards gotten for the dress. The trimming was a fluffy marabout stickup. The hat shape and the feather were "end-of-the-season" pickups at 10 cents each. This hat did not "look like 20 cents" even if it did cost just that. Her crowning achievement, however, was the white pumps at 20 cents.

A short length of the voile she would convert into a French hand embroidered importation, a separate waist for her mother to wear with a ratine skirt

This waist she would make an exact duplicate of one she had seen priced at $17.50. She had noted carefully the design of the waist and the pattern of the embroidery.

Taking a piece of clean white wrapping paper she cut a plain waist front to fit her mother. Upon this she drew the embroidery design she had seen upon the model. Applying the German valenciennes insertion to one end of the voile was the next step. The lace was first basted in place, then stitched; the goods was then cut away from beneath, the edges being turned back and then stitched in place. She then placed the prepared voile over the pattern already prepared and traced upon it with a soft pencil the embroidery design. After the completion of the embroidery a few tiny tucks were placed each side of the strip of insertion and the waist front was ready for cutting. The back and sleeves were prepared in the same manner as the front, the insertion running in straight line and the tucks extending to the waist line. The embroidery was used only on the front.

The cost of this waist was 80 cents. To be sure she could have gotten a waist ready made and quite pretty at that, but not to be mentioned in the same breath with her waist.

The ratine skirt gave her a chance to try her skill at cutting. As the mother was quite large she decided to cut it six-gored, with panel back and front, a plait being set under each edge of the lower portion of the back panel to give added width to the skirt. The ratine being 40 inches wide and alike on both sides, she had fitted the several gores one to the other, putting the wide portion of one, side by side, to the narrow portion of the other, cutting the skirt from two and one-third yards with absolutely no scraps remaining. As the ratine, of good, heavy quality, had been bought for 50 cents a yard the cost of this skirt was $1.16 2-3.

A Harmony of Opinion.

SHE was holding the teething baby, trying to pacify Alice crying with a toothache, and attempting to instruct her husband how to prepare a mixture for Roy's sore throat—all at the same time.

WHY MASHERS HAUNT THE FRONT AND NOT THE STAGE DOORS OF THEATERS NOWADAYS

By NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

"WHY do you use the word 'Johnny' to describe the young men when you know very well a 'Johnny' is a stage door 'masher,' on the lookout for chorus girls—who are just as much on the lookout for him?"

To this indignant inquiry of a youth I can reply only that the stage door "Johnny" is the rarest of his species—so rare that a chorus girl may live to the serene old age of a grand opera ballet dancer without having encountered him.

With every musical production there are, of course, two or three gentlemen who seem to have the freedom of the stage door. But even these privileged characters make themselves small, step softly and cross the palm of the stage door man with silver when they inquire if Miss Violet Montressor has come in yet.

Is it likely that "Johnnies" rush in where angels fear to tread? If you think so, play "Johnny" for an evening or an afternoon and stand outside a stage door. You will experience the lonesomeness of Robinson Crusoe before he saw Man Friday's tracks.

Why should a "Johnny" stand at the stage door anyhow in these days when sights so much more sensational are to be met in front of the theater? For today the matinee girl is much more sensationally attired than the stage beauties she goes to see.

The other day I attended a matinee in another city and heard a gasp of horror and dismay and delight go up from hundreds of overdressed schoolgirls in the audience when the chorus in trunks and white tights filed along a raised platform down the center aisle and the spot light played on the marvelously shapely legs of Shirley Kellogg, who led the procession.

"My, but that's daring! I don't see how a girl can have the face to do it!" gurgled one overdressed young lady to another.

Later, when the usual array of young girls with made-up cheeks, with skimpy, inadequate and too-slender clothes, had filed through the theater doors, it occurred to me it might be interesting to contrast the girls in front with those who would issue shortly from the stage doors and presumably fall into the clutch of the "Johnny" (who is incidentally a prudent soul with the safety clutch on when he goes in search of adventure). Not a "Johnny" was stirring. No, not the ghost of a "Johnny." One by one the chorus girls came out, quiet little girls, with home-made dresses for the most part—sometimes rather shabby dresses, though here and there appeared resplendent young ladies destined to rise o'er their dead souls to higher things—to star perhaps. For these girls, shabby or splendid, no "Johnny" waited.

One little person confessed that she "had a date with a reporter," and gave his name, which I knew. But, alas, the perfidious might-have-been Johnny had forgotten the tryst. And the pretty little girl went home alone.

Finally in a mouse-colored tailored suit with a well cut, rather full skirt that touched the ground, came a slim, very unobstrusive young woman who was identified for me as the owner of the shapely legs that had led the procession of girls in tights, and there was not one tiny item of this girl's dress which suggested the theater.

No wonder the "Johnny" has deserted the stage door when there is so much more to interest him in front of the house!

CHAPTER X

Out of Princeton Into Politics.

THE State of New Jersey at the beginning of the year 1910 was in the case of many another commonwealth in this union of states. It was in the grip of the politicians and the corporations, and the good people resident within its borders had about as much voice in the management of their public affairs as they had in deciding the weather or determining the phases of the moon. For years the State government had been run by agents of "the interests"—for a time the Pennsylvania Railroad predominating, more recently a combination of electric light and power companies, gas companies, and trolley lines, controlled by the Prudential Insurance Co. and the malodorous United Gas Improvement Co. of Philadelphia.

Laterly it was the Republican organization that had been in power at Trenton, but the system was really a bi-partisan one. The Republican bosses —Senator John Dryden, Senator John Kean, ex-Gov. Franklin Murphy, ex-Gov. Edward C. Stokes, and David P. Baird—had come to be known as the "Board of Guardians," in which public service, railroad, insurance and other corporation interests were duly represented. The Democratic organization was the private property of James Smith Jr., a politician who had made his way into the United States Senate in consequence of having delivered the vote of the Jersey delegation to Mr. Cleveland at the Democratic national convention of 1892, and who had retired from that body under criticisms connected with certain scandals incidental to the framing of the Wilson tariff.

However, the great moral movement which during the last five years has been abroad in the land, had not left New Jersey unaware of its gathering power. The leaders of both parties were forced to heed it. In the Republican party Everett Colby, George L. Record and others stirred up a dangerous enthusiasm among "new idea Republicans." Somehow, somewhere, by someone, there was suggested to Mr. Smith's organization a plan of getting aboard the reform wagon and riding on it into power.

IT IS easy enough to see how the idea of running Wilson for Governor needed only present itself to the imagination of a shrewd boss to become immediately congenial. Mr. Smith had a son at Princeton and had on one or two occasions exchanged greetings with the head of the college, but there was no real acquaintance between the two men, and the Democratic leader no doubt naturally imagined that a learned collegian would be as putty in the hands of an experienced politician—especially if his eyes were rose-spectacled by the promise of a nomination for President.

During the early summer of 1910 President Wilson was told by a number of his friends that he could probably have the Democratic nomination for Governor if he desired it. While sentiment among the best class of voters throughout the State was strong, the practical overtures came from the organization headed by Smith. Mr. Wilson was perfectly aware of ex-Senator Smith's political character and history; he knew what the organization was. How could such a gang support him? What quid did they expect for their quo? Were they deceiving themselves as to their man? Did they fancy that his life-long detestation of corrupt policies was simply pose? Did Smith expect to get a United States Senatorship through the Democratic Legislature which Wilson's popularity was likely to elect?

On that point Mr. Wilson made specific inquiry of the gentlemen who came to him on their puzzling errand. He required their assurance that Mr. Smith would not seek the Senatorship. "Were he to do so while I was Governor," he told them, "I should have to oppose him. He represents everything repugnant to my convictions." They told him categorically that Smith had no idea of going back to the Senate.

On Tuesday, July 12, 1910, a number of gentlemen gathered in a private room of the Lawyers' Club, 120 Broadway, New York, to inquire of Mr. Wilson whether he would allow his name to be presented to the New Jersey Democratic State convention. But one practical inquiry was made of Mr. Wilson; it was voiced by Mr. Hudspeth, and was in substance this:

"Dr. Wilson, there have been some political reformers who, after they have been elected to office as candidates of one party or the other, have shut the doors in the face of the organization leaders, refusing even to listen to them. Is it your idea that a Governor must refuse to acknowledge his party organization?"

"Not at all," Mr. Wilson replied. "I have always been a believer in party organizations. If I were elected Governor I should be very glad to consult with the leaders of the Democratic organization. I should refuse to listen to no man, but I should be especially glad to hear and duly consider the suggestions of the leaders of my party. If, on my own independent investigation, I found that recommendations for appointment made to me by the organization leaders named the best possible men, I should naturally prefer other things being equal, to appoint them, as the men pointed out by the combined counsels of the party."

MR. WILSON had been assured that only his consent was necessary for his unchallenged nomination, but in fact opposition to it at once arose and continued until the convention balloted. Three other Democrats—Frank S. Katzenbach, George S. Silzer and H. Otto Wittpen—immediately entered the ring. Wittpen was the successful Mayor of Jersey City and the sworn foe of "Boss" Davis; Davis, though lately he had quarreled with Smith, was now reconciled, and threw his Jersey City organization for Wilson's candidacy.

After issuing a statement, Mr. Wilson went to the little town of Lyme, Conn., where he has been in the habit of spending his summers, and—spent his summer. He moved not one of his 10 fingers in behalf of the nomination. Certain other people, however, were moving everything movable to that end. The fact that the Smith crowd was advocating him puzzled many who otherwise would have been his foremost supporters. It was only (as Mr. Wilson afterward learned to his amazement) by sharp dragooning that a majority sufficient to make him the choice was secured in the Trenton convention on Sept. 15.

The speech made in that body by Clarence Cole, formally putting Princeton's president in nomination, was interrupted by jeers, cat-calls and sarcastic questions. A few remarks made by Mr. Smith were, however, closely listened to.

On the first ballot, 709 votes being necessary to a choice, Woodrow Wilson received 749 and was declared the nominee for Governor. Hastily summoned from Princeton, 11 miles away, he appeared on the platform and made a speech of acceptance so ringing in its assertion of independence and so trumpet-toned in its utterance of the principles of progressive democracy that the convention was fairly carried off its feet.

> I did not seek this nomination. I have made no pledge and have given no promise. Still more, not only was no promise asked, but as far as I know, none was desired. If elected, as I expect to be, I am left absolutely free to serve you with all singleness of purpose. It is a new era when these things can be said.

ONE incident of the campaign was the candidate's reply to a list of questions, presumed to be embarrassing, asked him in an open letter by a Progressive Republican, Mr. George L. Record. Mr. Record put into careful form 19 queries requiring Mr. Wilson to declare himself on such subjects as a public service commission with power to fix rates; the physical valuation of public service corporations' properties; direct primaries; popular election of United States Senators; ballot reform; corrupt practices legislation; employers' liability for workingmen's injuries; and finally his own opinion of the Democratic bosses—namely, Smith, Nugent and Davis.

With instant readiness, with audacious glee, Mr. Wilson gave his answers: he accepted the whole progressive Republican program and asked for more; no Republican could satisfy a progressive Democrat's appetite for reform. As for Smith, Nugent and Davis, he would join anybody in denouncing them; they differed from Baird, Kean, Stokes and Murphy in this, that the latter "are in control of the government of the State, while the others are not, and cannot be if the present Democratic ticket is elected."

Election day was Nov. 8. On that day the people of New Jersey, for many years a Republican State, chose Woodrow Wilson for Governor by a plurality of 49,150. Two years before, Taft had carried the State by a plurality of 82,000. Wilson had changed the political mind of 66,000 out of 433,000 voters.

ON the same day, the majority of those Democrats who took the trouble to mark their ballots in this particular, selected James E. Martine as their choice for United States Senator. The total Democratic vote for Senator was only 73,000. Martine received 54,000. Nobody voted for James Smith Jr.

Ten days after the election James Smith Jr. called on Governor-elect Wilson at his home in Princeton. The ex-Senator is a gentleman of taste, of Chesterfieldian manner and delightful conversation, and his congratulations, we may depend upon it, were gracefully phrased. Equally graceful was his modest confession that he found his health now greatly bettered, and his intimation that he now indeed felt justified in taking into serious consideration the idea of asking re-election to the United States Senate.

Governor-elect Wilson, when he had satisfied himself that he heard aright, expressed the very great astonishment which he felt; he then said to Mr. Smith that he regarded the idea as impossible, and he begged him to abandon it forthwith.

"The primary was a joke," said Smith.

"It was very far from a joke," rejoined the Governor-elect.

Smith's candidacy was now made publicly known, and the party sharply divided, the organization declaring its purpose and its ability to carry the Legislature for him.

As a last effort to save Mr. Smith from the humiliation he was determined should overtake him if he persisted, Mr. Wilson called on Mr. Smith by appointment at his house in Newark. It was in the late afternoon on Tuesday, Dec. 6. The Governor-elect said he had come to say that, although he had as yet taken no public stand, it was his intention, unless Mr. Smith withdrew from the Senatorial contest, to announce his opposition to him.

"Will you be content in having thus publicly announced your opposition?" asked the aspirant.

"No. I shall actively oppose you with every honorable means in my power," replied the Governor-elect.

"Does that mean that you will employ the State patronage against me?" inquired Mr. Smith.

"No," answered Wilson. "I should not regard that as an honorable means. Besides, that will not be necessary."

The Governor-elect then laid down this ultimatum: "Unless I hear from you by or before the last mail delivery on Thursday night, that you abandon this ambition, I shall announce my opposition to you on Friday morning."

The last mail Thursday night brought no message from Smith, and Mr. Wilson by telegraph released to the morning newspapers a statement he had prepared denouncing the Smith candidacy. Half an hour later came a special delivery letter from Smith asking for a few days' delay. The denunciation had gone out.

ALWAYS rest upon the beach at least two hours before entering the water. By that time you will have a ring of admirers large enough to give you a wide choice in the matter of a bathing companion. Select the brownest, handsomest, and most athletic of the men, making sure that his bathing suit harmonizes well with your own. Walk slowly with him to the water's edge, giving all the observers enough time for admiring comment. On first wetting your feet, gasp slightly or emit a melodious scream, at the same time clutching your partner's hands tightly. He will assume a protecting air, mingled with frank adoration. Cling to him more and more as the water grow deeper. By this time he will be your willing slave. At the first really high breaker, throw both arms around his neck and half strangle him in your embrace. Help-lessness covers a multitude of sins. The more you maul him, the greater will be his ecstasy.

If he succeeds in getting you into the quieter water beyond the breakers, at once suggest to him that you would like to learn to float. He will teach you with alacrity. Sink slowly and carefully back into his arms, reclining in a graceful position. He will hold you safely and tenderly, never realizing that his support is quite unnecessary. After about 15 minutes of this you will be ready for a continuation of the more violent embraces of the breaker-jumping.

On coming out of the water, hurry home as quickly as possible. It is unhealthy to stand around in a wet bathing suit. Moreover, the woman has not yet been created who can make a good impression when she looks like a drowned rat. Your period of exhilaration is over for the day.—Sigmund Spaeth in Lippincott's.

On Jan. 23 the New Jersey Legislature elected James E. Martine to the United States Senate, giving him 40 votes. The organization mustered four for Smith.

The most moderate and charitable account of the matter that any way reaches its pith is that which Wilson himself once gave:

"They did not believe that I meant what I said, and I did believe that they meant what they said." In their sophistication, they had gold-bricked somebody, certainly, but not the schoolmaster nor the people of New Jersey. They had digged a pit and fallen into the midst of it themselves. For the intended victim to escape was, of course, rank ingratitude!

CANCER MICROBE AND CURE FOUND, SAYS SCIENTIST

Paris Physician Declares He Has Solved Mystery of the Dread Disease.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1912, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.)

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Dr. Gaston Odin of Paris declares he has solved the mystery of cancer by discovering its microbe. The announcement has caused widespread interest, as Dr. Odin says his researches were carried on under the rigorous methods used in the Pasteur Institute.

The microbe of cancer has been reported to have been discovered several times, but Dr. Odin's discovery is vouched for as authentic by Prof. Matruchot, head of the Cryptogamic Botanic section of Sorbonne University and is hailed by Prof. Lanters of the School of Medicine as a remarkable discovery.

Dr. Odin says he not only found but succeeded in isolating and cultivating the microbe, which is a blood microbe. It is a parasitical organism, transforming, developing and reproducing itself in a variety of forms passing the imagination. The microbe in its primitive form is flat and gelatinous in composition, with irregular torn edges surrounding the central kernel. When given a chance to develop it shoots forth in all directions.

No pronouncement on the discovery has yet been made by the medical profession generally, pending the receipt of further details. But Dr. Odin is confident a serum he has prepared will do for cancer what Jenner's vaccine has done for smallpox. He says his discovery makes possible for the first time the detection of cancer in the blood when no lesion or cancerous tumor is noticeable. Dr. Ordin says he has discovered a method to kill the cancer microbe when not too far developed.

One of the most startling statements made by Dr. Odin is a warning against contact with cancerous people, saying cancer is as infectious as any other microbic disease.

DOCTOR KILLED BY FEVER WHICH HE TRIES TO DESTROY

T. B. McClintick, Bridegroom, Succumbs in Washington Soon After Arrival.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Past Assistant Surgeon T. B. McClintick of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service died of spotted fever at the Georgetown University Hospital last night. He was rushed here from Victor, Mont., where he was bitten by the spotted fever wood tick several days ago. On his arrival here yesterday he was turned over to the most skilled men of the Government health service.

Until recent years little has been known of the deadly tick of the Bitter Root Valley, whose bite gives spotted fever, which kills 70 per cent of the persons who have it. Hundreds of persons have died from the Bitter Root Valley fever. Dr. McClintick was sent to Montana to co-operate with the State authorities to eradicate the tick and the disease.

Dr. W. D. Hunter of the Bureau of Entomology says:

"Although spotted fever occurs throughout the Rocky Mountains, the death rate is high in only one locality. Ordinarily the death rate ranges in the neighborhood of 4 per cent. In the Bitter Root Valley in Montana there exists a type of the disease in which the death rate is much higher. It averaged 70 per cent in 114 cases in 1902. It is estimated conservatively that since 1885 at least ... cases of spotted fever have occurred in the Bitter Root Valley. During this period the fever has caused the loss of more than 280 human lives."

Dr. McClintick went out in May and was about ready to return home when he became ill. His young wife, who was Miss Teresa Drexel of Washington, and whom he married just before starting for the West, left him there two weeks ago and came home, awaiting word announcing his departure from Montana. Last Friday Dr. McClintick became ill and the fever developed rapidly.

Ground squirrels, chipmunks, woodchucks and pine squirrels are the principal hosts of the fever tick. These animals abound in the Bitter Root Valley. The Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a germ disease and is communicated from wild animals to human beings by the bite of the tick. The fever is contracted only by blood infection and not through the digestive organs.

The Bitter Root Valley spotted fever is found only on the west side of the district. The east side is thickly populated.

HOUSE ROBBED FIVE TIMES THIS YEAR

J. Wallace Brennan and Family Becoming Used to Visits of Burglars.

J. Wallace Brennan, 5015 Von Versen avenue, told friends Wednesday that he is thinking seriously of putting up some such sign as this in a conspicuous place on the outside of his home:

: This House Always Open for Inspection. :
: Special Invitation to :
: Burglars and Other Thieves. :

As the house has been robbed five times this year Brennan hopes such a sign would at least save the woodwork and locks from jimmies and nippers. Anyway, the Brennans are becoming so used to burglarious visitors they would be lonesome without them.

The fifth robbery took place Monday night. This time only $30 were taken. At the last previous robbery the thieves got $375 worth of diamonds belonging to Mrs. Brennan.

SLAPS BOY, IS ARRESTED

Messenger's Assailant Captured After Chase—Shots Fired.

Leo Clyne, 23 years old, of 2722 St. Vincent avenue, was arrested Tuesday night after he had struck Gus Schaller, 17 years old, a special delivery messenger, of 1809 North Eighteenth street. Schaller told the police he was passing the corner of Eighth and Chestnut streets when Clyne, without provocation, slapped him on the nose. Clyne was running south on Eighth street when the police learned of the assault.

He was captured at Eighth and Market streets, after Patrolman Collins had fired several shots in the air. Post-office inspectors will handle the case. The police say Clyne appeared to have been drinking.

STEELS WELL TAKEN

Iron Age Review Takes an Optimistic View of the Trade Outlook.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says: "The upward movement of prices was resumed today, and although the pace of the advance was moderate, and most of the gains around or below one per cent, the tendency was general. This activity affected particularly the shares of steel-making companies, both the trust and the independents—a movement perhaps accounted for by the Iron Age's very cheerful review of the situation in that trade.

"It declares that the outlook has seldom been better, as regards either volume of business or prospect for remunerative prices, and lays particular stress on the bearing of harvest developments on the industry.

"There appeared to be moderate buying from out-of-town sources, combined with support by professional operators. This last-mentioned buying, however, was still more or less cautious, and the tendency to take profits at frequent intervals seemed to be encouraged by consideration of some doubtful points which still exist in the general situation.

"Time money was somewhat firmer; foreign exchange again tended downward.

"The remarkable situation in the harvest states lends interest to the Government's figures on the country's agricultural exports for July, and for the seven completed months of 1912.

"For last month alone the total is the smallest in more than two decades, with the single exception of 1904, when supplies of cotton had at this time been practically exhausted.

"On the present occasion it is a somewhat similar exhaustion of the supply of breadstuffs—a result of last year's deficient crops—which is responsible for the month's poor showing.

"But when one examines the figures for the seven months ending with July, the story is different. The country's total agricultural reports for the period exceed all records, save that of the outward trade which followed the great harvest year 1906, and their value is $32,000,000 ahead of the similar months in 1911.

"That this should have happened, notwithstanding a heavy shrinkage in our export of grain, flour, cattle and meat is wholly explained by the great cotton yield of 1911, whose abundance the Southern conventions deplored with such fervor when the harvest results were known. Neither in number of bales nor in total value of the shipments has this cotton export ever been paralleled in our history; for the seven months period it runs $40,000,000 beyond the previous maximum.

"When it is remembered that this remarkable movement has not only bulwarked our country's position on international exchange, but has filled up the empty storehouses of foreign spinners, and called into new activity European spindles and European labor, it may be judged how much of legitimate basis underlay last autumn's lamentations. As for the general export situation, it will hardly be doubted that the slackened movement of July was merely an interval before the outward trade in agricultural products rises again to notable magnitude."

DETAILED REPORTS OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—With transactions approaching 250,000 shares in the first hour, today's stock market again moved forward to the highest general average of the year. There was greater breadth, with some signs of public interest, especially in coppers, which coincided with intimations of prospective advances in metal prices. Steel was the feature, regaining leadership and selling at the year's best quotation, and there was marked strength in Smelting. Canadian Pacific scored a new record, with future inquiry for standard railers at advancing prices. Half a score of miscellaneous issues were up 1 to 2 points.

Bonds were firm.

Speculation became broader, active and stronger, with sustained demand for the grangers, coalers, Southern stocks and metal specialties.

Reading slipped back to below yesterday's closing, but prices held well elsewhere, with Erie in especial demand.

Minor specialties came to the front when the advance in the leaders ceased and gains of 1 to 2 points followed.

The market closed strong. Shares of independent steel companies responded to the rise in steel, while many low-priced specialties rose substantially. The railroads also improved their position.

American Stocks Are Steady on the London Exchange.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—American securities opened steady and a fraction higher today. Trading was quite active and prices improved during the first hour under the lead of Canadian Pacific and Louisville & Nashville. At noon the market was steady with values ranging from ¼ to 1¼ higher than yesterday's New York closing.

American securities improved under the lead of Canadian Pacific and Louisville & Nashville. New York supported the market in the late trading and values made further gains. The closing was steady.

COTTON MARKET LOWER AFTER EARLY FIRMNESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 4 points in response to higher Liverpool cables, but soon eased off under realizing by local buyers of yesterday and a renewal of local pressure, which was encouraged by reports of continued good weather in the South. There were rumors that American mills had been heavy buyers here yesterday, but there seemed to be little sign of any important demand from trade sources this morning and the market before the end of the first hour sold off to a net loss of 11 to 15 points.

Covering became active on the decline during the middle of the morning, while there also seemed to be fresh buying by reactionists, encouraged by poor crop reports from some sections of Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas. At any rate, prices firmed up late in the afternoon and the market toward midday showed a rally of 12 to 14 points from the lowest, or to practically the closing figures of last night. A private crop report made the condition 77.7 on Aug. 10, compared with 78.6 on July 20.

HOGS—But a moderate supply was received and the market opened active and with prices 5c higher, but the late trade was not any better than the Tuesday market. The top was $8.70 and the bulk went at $8.45@8.60. Hogs weighing 175 to 225 pounds and good quality were the ones that were best sellers and brought $8.55 and upward, while the heavy and mixed hogs sold at $8.30@8.50 as a rule. Butchers and shippers secured the good hogs, as they were better buyers than packers. Best pigs and lights sold at $8@8.50; medium grades, $7@7.85, and the rough heavy hogs, $7.40@7.65.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market today presented the same range of prices that were in evidence at yesterday's sale. Fresh receipts were rather light. About 100 head changed hands in the ring. Good, big, rugged work horses were the best sellers, with tasty drivers a close second.

The mule trade was on about the same basis that it has presented for the past week. All classes sold fairly active, with miners and good, big mules going at the best profits. Fresh receipts were nominal.

Traders talked bullish on wheat Wednesday, but prices failed to advance, and after some early buying the market developed irregularity. There was not much in the run of news.

Cables were firm and higher and influenced the opening and the bulls after glancing at the weather map wisely said temperatures were too low in the Canadian Northwest. Crop Expert B. W. Snow reported warm weather needed in Canada and estimated the wheat crop of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta at 168,000,000, against 180,000,000 bu last year.

Argentine news was favorable and the weather and crop reports fine. Cables said wheat is pretty firmly held, however, as stocks are being reduced, and therefore shipments to ports are smaller. Advices from Germany reported the wheat crop impeded by continued rain.

The movement to market again was heavy. St. Louis received 216,627 bu, against 51,786 bu last year. Kansas City got 254,400 bu, against 81,600 bu last year, and Chicago 430,600 bu, compared with 390,400.

Minneapolis wheat receipts were 241 cars, against 142 cars last week and 112 cars last year. Duluth got 6, against 8 last week and 48 last year. Winnipeg got 56, last week 48 and last year 67. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 400,000 bu in 4 days.

Local wheat receipts were 216,627 bu, or 812 sacks, 132 cars, local, 47 through; last year, 51,786 bu, or 1016 sacks, 38 cars local, 7 through. Corn receipts, 38,980 bu, or 232 sacks, 26 cars local, 6 through; last year, 94,800 bu, or 58 cars local, 21 through. Oats receipts, 68,000 bu, or 24 cars local, 16 through; last year, 66,300 bu, or 33 cars local, 6 through.

Liverpool wheat opened firm and ½d higher on firmness in America and light cargo arrivals, with an improved foreign demand. Following the opening there was further covering by shorts in October, and prices gained an additional ½d. The continuous rains in the United Kingdom and increasing reports of damage, with native wheat firmly held, caused shorts and speculators to buy freely. Reports from Russia are bullish regarding the available surplus, and European crop prospects are less favorable. The closing was firm.

Liverpool corn opened ¼d higher and gained ⅜d to ½d, with the undertone strong. Shorts covered on the lighter arrivals, strong spot situation and firmer plate offerings, with firmness in Buenos Aires.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¾d higher, corn ½d to ⅝d higher. Paris wheat, ¼c up; Antwerp, holiday; Berlin, ⅝c up and Budapest, ⅛c lower.

Crop Expert B. W. Snow wired from Winnipeg: "Think Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have a crop promise of about 168,000,000 bu wheat against 180,000,000 bu last year. The acreage is a little larger, but June drouth, July frost and a large area of stubble-sown wheat brings yield below last year, especially in Saskatchewan. Weather past three weeks ideal for filling, but cool, and too many rainy days have delayed ripening. A little ready to cut on thin lands, where early varieties were sown, but area thus advanced is trifling. By end of the week cutting will really begin, but bulk of crop in eastern central and northern Saskatchewan, where great acreage lies, is still green, and cutting will not be well under way until Aug. 25 or later. Frost inside of 10 days would do as much damage as last year, when frost, Aug. 25, caused more than half the crop to grade No. 4 and under. In a nutshell, it is a good average crop of exceptionally fine quality if frost holds off until end of month, but right now it sadly needs warm sunny weather to force ripening."

New York wired: "Some Argentine corn sold c. i. f. New York yesterday. More is being figured on. The price was 70c or 71c c. i. f. New York terms, to arrive about Oct. 1."

Total clearances of wheat were 585,000 bu, flour 9000 bbls, corn 17,000 bu, oats 2000 bu. Wheat and flour 626,000 bu.

Bradstreet's world's supply figures showed:

Wheat—United States and east of Rockies, increase, 279,000 bu; west of Rockies, decrease, 107,000 bu; Canada, decrease, 831,000 bu; afloat and in Europe, decrease, 6,700,000 bu. Total decrease, 7,531,000 bu.

Corn—United States and Canada, increase, 364,000 bu; oats, increase, 31,000 bu.

Chicago reported 100,000 cash wheat sold for export and more working.

Corn was weak and lower. There was a sharp break in the September option in Chicago and cash demands were less urgent. Weather was good for the crop and country offers larger. Oats were easy.

Chicago wheat cars were 275; corn, 150; oats, 276. Estimated tomorrow: Wheat, 155; corn, 127; oats, 157.

Cash wheat closed strong; Sept. winter, ½c to 1c higher; hard winter, ¼c up.

Cash corn receipts small; mixed and yellow steady to ½c higher; white off ½c to 1c.

Cash oats closed ½c to 1c higher on white.

S'MATTER POP

(You'd think folk who LIVE in the country would get used to the noises and sleep quietly.)

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch By C. M. PAYNE.

The Jarr Family

By Roy L. McCardell

Mrs. Jarr sets forth the true philosophy of vacations.

"WHEN are you going to take your vacation?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "Here it's getting late in the summer and we are still stuck in town."

"Well, the weather's been cool and we've all the comforts of home. Aren't you satisfied?" asked Mr. Jarr in turn.

"Oh, I'm satisfied," was the reply, "but I've run a little behind in my bills. And Muller, the grocer, answered me rather shortly on the telephone today. We had either better go wherever we are going, or else we'd better try to pay something more on what we owe. If we don't go anywhere the tradesmen will think we haven't any money and will be dunning us to death."

"But if we haven't the money to settle up how can we pay?" retorted Mr. Jarr. "Besides, how would it help us or the tradesmen either if we took the money we should pay our bills with and went to the seashore or the mountains?"

"It would do us a lot of good," said Mrs. Jarr. "The tradesmen would have more respect for us. They'd feel sure people who could go away on vacation could pay if they felt like it. And they'd be mighty civil when we came back."

"I don't get you," said Mr. Jarr.

"Well, it's very simple," said Mrs. Jarr. "Tradesmen are eager to serve people whom they think can pay but won't. But they are very different if you don't pay because you can't."

These mysteries of our social and business relations were too deep for Mr. Jarr. He only shook his head in a puzzled manner.

"Why, don't you remember when the Hicketts lived on this street in the private house that was torn down to build a garage, how they restored their credit every summer by shutting up the house and pretending they had gone to Europe? Cora Hickett used to steal out of the basement way every night with a heavy veil on and go shopping over on Franklin avenue where the stores are open late. They lived on canned goods and bottled milk so long that she burst into tears when she won a silver can opener at a euchre."

"Well, when the boss comes back from his vacation in Nova Scotia I'll see about taking mine," said Mr. Jarr.

"Johnny Rangle has gone camping with the Boy Scouts. Our Willie was to go, too, but he got the whooping cough," said Mrs. Jarr. "The Rangles are going to visit relatives in Youngstown, O., while Johnny is away, but by the time they get there and get back I don't see how they can have much time for vacation. Mrs. Stryver is going to the White Mountains. She's just back from Sulphur Springs. Clara Mudridge-Smith has been to Atlantic City and is to join her husband in Nova Scotia. The Dibbles are on the Jersey Coast. So, maybe it will be just as well to wait until they all get back."

"I don't see why," said Mr. Jarr.

"Why, if we go while they are away they won't believe we went at all," said Mrs. Jarr. "No, we'll wait till they come back and then we'll go. I'd just like to have the satisfaction of saying to them: 'Oh, we never go away till September.'"

"So vacation is, for the most part, only the idea of doing it because it is the style? We really do not go away for a good rest and a change of air and scene. We only go because it is the fashion?" queried Mr. Jarr.

"You don't want people around here to think we can't afford two weeks out of town in the summer, do you?" asked Mrs. Jarr, indignantly. "The first thing you know Mrs. Stryver will be hinting that the children could have had an outing by the aid of one of the fresh air funds she contributes to. I wouldn't give that woman the opportunity to patronize me!"

"Well, whenever you like," said Mr. Jarr. "I guess I could get off next week if that will suit you. Better to rough it down on Uncle Henry's farm than to be sneered at by an upstart and purse-proud aristocracy."

"I wouldn't call the Stryvers aristocracy of any sort," said Mrs. Jarr. "We are as good as they are, any day. But as a rest and change would do me good, Gertrude wants to take her vacation with her married sister. Her married sister has twins and keeps boarders, six railroad men. And Gertrude will be worked to death and come back to us so tired out that I'll have all the work to do and have to wait on her, besides.

"And if we don't go somewhere for a couple of weeks and leave the comforts of our happy home behind we'll be humiliated, too?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Why, certainly," replied Mrs. Jarr. "Aren't we as good as the Rangles or the Hicketts or the Stryvers or anybody else we know?"

"How do you like my new portrait?"
"Beautiful! Charming! And yet, it's like you."

HER WORST FEARS.

"Henry, please, for my sake don't fall over the edge. If you do I'll never be able to find my way back to the hotel again."

1—Imagine Deacon Jones's righteous indignation.

2—And just then the grocery wagon moved away.

NATURE'S ESSENCE—Extracted From Forest Plants

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alterative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of PUBLIC APPROVAL and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

E. WILLIAM, ESQ.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes MR. EZRA WILLIAMS, of Bellevillo, Kan. "I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicines did me harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had liver complaint with indigestion and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.'

"The 'Discovery' and 'Pellets' have 'put me on my feet again'—seemed to be just what I needed. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.
